GLORY STARS HELP SOCCEROO'S CAUSE

By Mark Stavroulakis

The Socceroos registered their first victory of the Oceania Nations Cup last Saturday night in Auckland after defeating an organised Vanuatu side two-nil.

After scores were dead-locked at nil-all on the break, Perth Glory strikers Damien Mori and Bobby Despotovski were at hand to gift the green and gold three valuable points.

It was Mori's 27th international goal for the Socceroos as his 69th minute strike kick-started Australia's progress towards the final of the Nations Cup.

Mori's goal lifted the weight off Australia's shoulders as Vanuatu played a demanding role in controlling the mid-field, while their defence was hard to break at times.

All was won in the 81st minute when Glory's other star striker Bobby Despotovski, came on as a substitute to score the final goal which gave the lucky Socceroos their share of the points.

The match itself produced some controversy especially during the first half when Farina's men were denied two strong penalty claims.

Vanuatu had the best chance to take a surprising lead in the first half when a stunning attack was thwarted by Olympic Sharks young gun and Soccer debutant Jade North, who produced some quality defending to deny the tiny Pacific Island side their opening goal.

As expected, it took time for the Socceroos to settle in their pattern as the majority of the squad had just come back from an off-season break.

Captain and Melbourne Knights star

Steve Horvat stated after the match that Vanuatu were a tough side to break and added that the side will gel better as the tournament wears on. "They (Vanuatu) were a well organised and hard to break down and it was our first game together as a team. We will get better as the tournament goes on, there's a lot of improvement to come," ended Horvat.

The match proved sentimental for four players (Patrick Kisnorbo, Jade North, Tom Pondeljak and Ante Milicic), as the quartet all made their debuts for the Australian side.

Group A's other match saw Fiji defeat New Caledonia whom the Socceroos will face in the coming days before the Semi-Finals (July 12th) and finally the Grand-Final (July 14th).

The Socceroos line-up: Jason Petkovic (GK), Fausto De Amicis, Patrick Kisnorbo, Mehmet Durakovic, Steve Horvat (C), Jade North, Milan Blagojevic, Tom Pondeljak (Trimboli 64'), Scott Chipperfield (Robbie Middleby 72'), Damien Mori, Ante Milicic (Despotovski 64'). Cautions: P. Kisnorbo, S. Chipperfield.

BLATTER TO VISIT AUSTRALIA

FIFA President Sepp Blatter is set for a visit to Australia in early August and is the ideal time for Australia to push its claim for automatic entry to the World Cup.

Acting SA chief executive Greg Bates said Blatter's visit would be a good opportunity to do some lobbying and told AAP "He's (Blatter) looking forward to swinging down (to Australia) and making sure the message gets through that FIFA is right behind us.

FIFA President Sepp Blatter will be visiting Australia, in early August.

"It's an issue of trying to generate as much good will as we can out of the World Cup and giving a bit more optimism in the code than what's been evidenced in the past few months," said Bates.

Further to the issue of the national side, Bates also revealed much of the Socceroos' schedule for the rest of the year, with a confirmed game against World Cup quarter-finalists the United States, in the US, in early November.

He said SA had also secured games against other World Cup teams, South Korea and South Africa with dates to be confirmed.

Several European games are also understood to be on the agenda including a possible match-up against Portugal.

He added that Farina's position was totally secure regardless of the result from the Oceania Nations Cup, which begins in Auckland on Friday.

AUSSIES ABROAD BY BINESH MUDALIAR

Following the conclusion of the 2002 World Cup, several transfers involving Aussies have been made official.

Goalkeeper Les Pogliacomini has commenced pre-season training with Oldham Athletic and when asked how he was finding life in England, the former Wollongong Wolves and Parramatta Power star told the official Oldham Athletic website, "Fortunately we speak the same language and I think that is always a barrier when you move to a new country if you don't speak the lingo...but because it's all the same, I'm finding it pretty good and I enjoy Manchester life."

Pogliacomini joined Oldham on a free transfer and will remain at Boundary Park until June 2004.

Socceroo striker Clayton Zane completed his move from Lillestrom in Norway to Belgium's Anderlecht for 2,500,000 Euros. Zane's contract with Anderlecht expires in June 2006.

Eddie Thompson:
Recommended Kevin Muscat to Glasgow Rangers.

Socceroo right-back Kevin Muscat completed his highly publicized move from Wolverhampton

Wanderers to Glasgow Rangers on a free transfer. Rangers' manager Alex McLeish told Soccernet, "Kevin Muscat signed a few weeks ago. He will bring experience and is a solid pro."

"We have good endorsements for him from past coaches, none more so than (former Australia coach) Eddie Thompson, who I played with at Aberdeen."

"Eddie rates Kevin very highly, but we also did our homework. We watched him in a few games and he looked like he would be a good squad acquisition."

Another Australian heading to Ibrox Park will be Ben Stevens of Northern Spirit, following trials last season.

Youth coach at Rangers, Jan Derks, told the official Rangers website, "We looked at three Northern Spirit players and one we have signed is Ben Stevens."

"He still has to learn reading the game but he is extremely quick."

18-year-old Stevens is the first player to sign for the legendary Scottish club since a partnership was signed between Rangers and Spirit two years ago.

Goalkeeper Peter Zois may be without a club for the upcoming season after the Dutch football federation last week informed his club, NAC Breda, that they will not be offered a playing licence for the 2002/2003 season.

The official NAC Breda website stated that the reasons for the authorities not permitting NAC to play were the lack of a main and/or shirt sponsor and the inability to cope with a solvency deficit. NAC Breda will appeal to the Dutch Federation within 14 days of their original decision. 24-year-old Zois is in the final year of his contract with NAC.

Mark Viduka has married his long-time girlfriend Ivana Husidic in a ceremony in the ancient fortress of Lovrijenac in Dubrovnik.

Viduka also revealed that the couple were expecting a baby. The Socceroo striker is currently honeymooning on his luxury yacht.

While the World Cup was in full swing, there was at least one Aussie in action, that being Kasey Wehrman of Norwegian club Moss. The former Perth Glory star has strung together a number of 90-minute performances this season except for the game against Valerenga on June 10, when he was sent off in the 71st minute following two cautions.

If Ajax reserve goalkeeper Joe Didulica goes out on loan again next season it may not be to the Ajax-owned Belgian club Germinal Beerschot Antwerp.

Ajax have a 72.5% stake in GBA but are keen to sell their majority shareholding. Didulica played two league games for GBA last season before heading back to Ajax and playing eight league games for the famous Amsterdam club.

19-year-old Southampton striker Scott McDonald has been loaned to Huddersfield Town for three months. Huddersfield Town manager Mick Wadsworth told The Guardian, "McDonald is a player that I have been looking at for a while. I was working with him over the summer. He's got great pace, he's strong and he's a good finisher."

"His first-team chances were limited at Southampton and this is a very good chance for him."

Steve Corica: Returns to international action next month.

McDonald was also being courted by Swansea City boss Nick Cusack who wanted the Victorian on loan for the entire 2002/2003 season.

While the rejuvenated Steve Corica will not be playing for Australia in the Oceania Cup, he will be playing against a national team for his club, Walsall.

The Saddlers play the Malawi national team on August 2 at Cross Keys Stadium in a pre-season fixture arranged by the English FA as a part of their international development programme.

In possibly the shock story of the week, Socceroo defender Tony Vidmar has held talks with English second division club Cardiff City following his release from Glasgow Rangers at the end of last season. The 28-year-old has also been tracked by English Premier League club, Middlesbrough.

Coventry City Teamtalk reported last week that Coventry manager Gary McAllister is eyeing Leeds' goalkeeper Danny Milosevic. Milosevic is number three on the goalkeeper's pecking order at Elland Road behind Nigel Martyn and Paul Robinson and McAllister will need to replace Spain-bound Magnus Hedman.

AEK Limassol of Cyprus and Japanese club Kyoto are in negotiations regarding the transfer of former QPR midfielder Ned Zelic.

Ned Zelic: On his way to Cyprus?

Millwall chairman Theo Pappitis has confirmed that the London club has not received an offer from Aston Villa for midfielder Tim Cahill. Australian-born Cahill, who is a Samoan international, scored 13 goals for the Lions last season.

DUGDALE AT THE HELM OF THE KINGZ

The Football Kingz have announced Ken Dugdale as their new manager. The former All Whites coach will leave his job with Norwegian Second Division FK Vesteralen to return to New Zealand.

Kingz director Chris Turner said: "Following a strenuous review by the company of our perceived short and long-term coaching requirements, we are pleased to announce the appointment of Ken Dugdale and Stuart Jacobs as the Football Kingz coaching team for the 2002/3 season."

"We have been committed to finding and appointing a New Zealand coaching team that clearly understood the importance of the Football Kingz to the development of the code in this country, had an in-depth knowledge of local playing talent and a clear understanding of the professional footballing environment."

Ken Dugdale

"For some time we have quietly explored the potential options and format for this position."

"In being able to identify and bring together Ken and Stuart as a coaching partnership, we have been able to combine a wide range of skills. As a team, they bring to the Football Kingz a proven level of experience, vision, skill and success."

"They know the New Zealand football scene, can identify current and emerging talent that will cope with the rigors of professional football, have and support a holistic approach to team development and culture and a no nonsense approach to ensuring success."

"Just as importantly, they both have a commitment and desire to see football grow and succeed in this country and understand the absolutely critical role the Football Kingz play in that equation."

Newcastle United Adopt The Griffiths Brothers

By Con Tagaroulas

Newcastle United has strengthened their squad by yet another two signing's following Steve Eagleton's move from the Power last week.

The whole Griffiths clan have been adopted by Newcastle as Adam and Ryan have both come to the club.

Joel Griffiths

Joel, one of Newcastle's main stars in last seasons National League will be hoping for yet another big season ahead of him following his 10 goals in season 2001/2002.

Adam, who finished the season with a bang in Spirit colours, will add some pace and width to the United squad. In his final game against Wollongong he demonstrated the ability many on the North side of Sydney had seen. His last two performances earned him two MOM plaudits.

Unfortunately the persistence with experience over potential, North of the bridge, has seen the 22-year limited to 28 appearances in a three-year spell.

Loan spells at Eastern Pride and Manly Warringah Dolphins have resulted in the midfielder looking further north.

Another player heading north from the Spirit is Ryan Griffiths. Griffiths turns 21 in August and complements the pace that Ian Crook has sought in strengthening his squad. Comfortable as a Striker or in a wide role, he should manage to add to his six N.S.L. goals.

Although limited to six starts and eleven appearances off the Spirit bench he did impress with a brace in a 3-2 victory over the Kingz in round nine of the previous season.

The signing's ensure Ian Crook has fulfilled a two-fold desire. The first being to add a variety of ages to his squad ensuring a future spate of retirements does not decimate the United ranks. The second desire centred on the "need for speed" that the former Tottenham Hotspurs and Norwich defender believes all "class sides" have.

In his second season as an N.S.L. coach, Ian Crook believes he may be able to be more positive when the team goes forward. With the added speed of Steve Eagleton, Ryan and Adam Griffiths complementing the existing pace of Matthew Bingley and company, there will be ample pace available to ensure covering ground is not a problem.

United is still on the hunt for a replacement for Brad Swancott whose contract was not renewed.

The coaching ranks have seen a reshuffle of youth team coaches, with one former Australian international in David Lowe replacing Graham Jennings as the Youth team coach.

Con Constantine repeated earlier comments regarding player signing's when asked if further signing's were expected.

"I will always be prepared to strengthen our squad if quality players with the right kind attitude are made available."

Adam Griffiths will join brother Joel at Newcastle United this season.

Ryan Griffiths

Socceroos in Stars and Stripes Match-Up

By Daniel Kuzlow

Soccer Australia has confirmed a November match-up between Australia and recent World Cup quarter finalists the United States of America.

The US fresh from their crowning as CONCACAF champions following their emphatic 2-0 victory in the second round of the World Cup, will provide the perfect tonic for Frank Farina's side as he prepares to launch the 2006 World Cup qualifying campaign.

The most recent FIFA ranking's see the US in 11th spot, while for Australia their lack of activity over the month long festival of football has seen them drop to 50th.

A great deal of criticism has been directed at the Socceroos for the failure to make the recent World Cup and much of it has centered on a lack of exposure to quality international sides.

This match scheduled for later this year will pit Australia against a US side that has brought a successful brand of football and highly talented players to the World stage.

While the contest against a side that has made the last four consecutive World Cups is of great importance, SA chief Greg Bates believes the contest is simply one in a long succession of matches and told AAP.

"We'd like to develop a fuller program such that we can line up with a South American team on the way round and then some European teams as well."

"Soccer Australia hasn't had the luxury until recent weeks to develop these programs as our (marketing) rights were owned by another company" Mr Bates concluded.

RANGERS SIGN FIRST AUSSIE YOUNGSTER

By Barry Anderson

Rangers are reaping the first rewards of their two-year link-up with Australian club Northern Spirit after signing a future Aussie star at Ibrox.

Ben Stevens: Aussie youngster has just signed with Scottish Giants Glasgow Rangers.

The Scottish club have signed 18-year-old forward Ben Stevens from Spirit and he will go straight into the under-18 squad at Murray Park this season.

Rangers, youth players report back for pre-season training on Monday and Stevens will join them as the first player to arrive from the Sydney-based outfit.

Chairman David Murray recently sold 51 per cent of his Northern Spirit shares to Australian investors 4A Management but Rangers are stressing the importance of their official link Down Under.

Director of football Dick Advocaat made a spring journey to Oz to assess the Spirit operation and returned with a glowing reference on Stevens.

Youth Coach Jan Derks said: "We looked at three Northern Spirit players and one we have signed is Ben Stevens."

He was here for a couple of weeks last season and is a very fast right winger. He still has to learn reading the game but he is extremely quick.

"He is the first one to join us. We have had others here at Murray Park but it has later been discovered they weren't eligible to apply for dual nationality with a European nation because their ancestors had given up citizenship of the country of their birth."

Despite the red tape involved in recruiting some of Australia's hot young talent, Derks and fellow youth coach Tommy McLean will persist in their attempts.

Rangers believe there is a multitude of young Aussie stars waiting to be snapped up and are willing to show patience to get the men they want.

Derks added: "Although Rangers, link with Northern Spirit is not as strong financially as it was with David Murray selling 51 per cent of his shares, we want to keep the connection."

"We want to keep the Northern Spirit youth development program linked to the Rangers youth development program because Sydney is a massive place."

"They have so many football players over there and we want the best players from that area. Bill Collins at Northern Spirit can give us the names and it's up to us to get them."

"Obviously there's no guarantee we will always get who we want because everybody is scouting in Australia. One boy we wanted decided to go to Inter Milan because he had Italian parents and his father wanted him to go to Italy."

"Nevertheless we intend to keep using our connections with Northern Spirit and more players will follow Ben Stevens."

The Socceroos will take on the United States in November.

FROM MARCONI TO MORTON FOR MAISANO

By Richard Kreider

The Australian U-23 star is Morton's third summer signing as confirmed at a press conference at the club last week. The coach of the Cappielow Park club is Scottish international and ex-Carlton SC player Dave McPherson.

Maisano featured with the U23's at the 1999 Nigerian World Youth Cup, which included a goal against Saudi Arabia during the first round.

He spent a season with Italian side Atlanta prior to joining Belgian team Westerlo in 1998. There, Maisano was coached by ex-Belgian icon Jan Cuelemans and went on to make almost 40 appearances before heading back downunder a couple of years ago.

He did however, trial at Kilmanamock at the end of last season, but the failure of the proposed SPL TV channel halted any further developments.

Similarly with Marco, who made 11 appearances last season since joining Morton in March, John (23) retains an Italian passport, which means his new club will not have to worry about any work permit restraints.

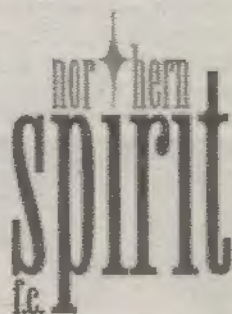

Morton's first SFL game on August 3 will be away against the newly admitted Gretna, who had to beat six other clubs including favourites Airdrie United.

The vacancy was made following the demise of Airdrieonians.

POWER CHANGE AT SPIRIT

By Daniel Kuzlow

Laurie McKinna has been appointed coach of Northern Spirit after the dismissal of former coach Mick Hickman.

The Parramatta Power assistant to David Mitchell is set to take the reigns just a couple of months after Hickman took the Spirit to the brink of the NSL finals.

Speaking to the worldgame.com.au Hickman said while not bitter about the sacking he will now look to overseas to further his coaching CV.

"I've known it was coming for quite a while - the whole thing was based on financial issues really," Hickman said. "I'm a realist, I've been in football a long, long time and I can disagree with what they are doing but if finances govern, that's the way it's got to go."

"Unfortunately finances seemed to overshadow the football, the club lost a lot of money and then they had to cut back."

After playing second fiddle to Mitchell at Power, McKinna looks set to play an important role as new coach at the fledgling north Sydney based club.

Last season, McKinna was thrust into the coaching limelight when Mitchell took a prolonged business trip to the Netherlands and while the results under him were mixed, Northern Spirit football director Bill Collins says McKinna was the natural choice to replace Hickman: "I think Lawrie has the experience we are looking for. He has a great deal of local knowledge as well as playing in Scotland," Collins said.

Mick Hickman: Former Spirit coach will look to overseas for a club.

Wedding Bells!!

Wedding Bliss!! Congratulations on the picture-perfect wedding of Northern Spirit goalkeeper LOU ACEVSKI to the lovely and enchanting Katerina.

Lou and Katerina married in their hometown of Melbourne in front of a strong 400-plus family and friends, including current Spirit teammates who traveled from the Harbour City for the grand event.

By Daniela Raco

A close friend of the happy couple is ABSW's Melbourne-based Daniela Raco. She was among the party of guests invited to celebrate with the newlyweds before they jetted off to their well-deserved honeymoon escape (water-bungalows and all).

Enjoy the happy snaps! ...it's not often the Spirit lads don the tux's and ties.

PERINICH JOINS THE STALLIONS

Tony Perinich has become the latest casualty for the Wollongong Wolves as the gun striker has signed with the Marconi Stallions for next season.

The 30-year-old last season had an unhappy stint at Northern Spirit until he joined the Wolves mid-way through the season.

Apart from Perinich, Sean Babic, Buddy Farah

Marconi's football chief Rale Rasic, in his first season, expects to change to change things around at the Stallions hiring new coach Raul Blanco.

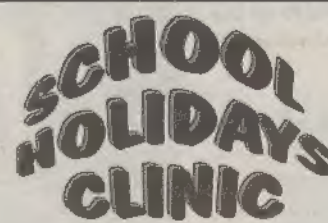

Also rumored to be on the way to Marconi is former Bonnyrigg star Vuko Tomasevic.

Krncevic Splitting With South?

The rift between South Melbourne and Coach Eddie Krncevic has deepened with Krncevic returning to Melbourne after an extended period overseas.

Krncevic is said to have retained lawyers. These lawyers have written to South Melbourne informing them Krncevic is issuing legal proceedings against the club for defamation following comments allegedly made by newly elected president, Peter Mitrakas on various television networks last week.

South sources say Krncevic received many phone calls and letters from South through the close season asking him to contact the club but these were supposed-

South are believed to be furious Krncevic left for overseas without informing the Club then remained overseas and out of contact for most of the close season. Krncevic failed to attend the clubs prestigious awards ceremony and annual ball on Saturday night.

Allegations have surfaced over recent weeks suggesting an involvement by Krncevic in the Petkovic transfer to Turkish club Trabzonspor. South Melbourne were forced to send newly elected President, Peter Mitrakas to Turkey to review the contract as middlemen were said to be taking a commission of up to $200,000.

Krncevic remains officially the coach at South Melbourne although many present at the South Ball on Saturday evening believe he has abandoned his coaching post.

South Melbourne officials are refusing to offer any comment on the Krncevic affair.

New South Melbourne Coach?

Word about town is former star player Danny Wright will be appointed coach within a matter of days.

Only Wright and another former player, Alan Davidson have been mentioned as replacements for Eddie Krncevic. Clearly the success Wright has enjoyed in Queensland has assisted his prospects.

Wright is also said to be the players choice as coach.

Current assistant coach Jeff Olver will not be retained as assistant coach. However "he will be offered an ongoing role at the club" according to a South insider.

Marth Continuing

Andrew Marth is continuing as coach of the Melbourne Knights. His assistant coach, Luciano Trani will continue as his assistant coach. The 33-year-old had a great year last season guiding the Knights into the top six. 'Stabba' will be looking to further that position this year.

Andrew Marth: Will be at the helm once more at the Knights this season.

Porter A Wanted Man

As the most wanted signing in the NSL, Porter has a number of options, all of which are exciting. He still hopes to be signed by a European Club.

Otherwise, Perth Glory are confident they will sign the talented former Knight. However several other clubs have spo-

South Signing's

Kiwi international Vaughan Coveny signed a 3-year contract this week.

Newcastle were keen to secure Coveny but he wanted to see out his playing days with South.

Durakovic and club favourite Paul Trimboli both signed one year contracts with South before flying to New Zealand on Socceroo duties.

Central defender Robert Liparoti who was also liked with Newcastle has almost completed negotiations with South. He is expected to have resigned this week.

Only Steve Panapolous has not resigned but this is understood to be a logistical problem only as he has spent the close season in his new wives homeland of Brazil. Panapolous is also expected to resign shortly.

Over the next few weeks South expect to sign several new players but officials were remaining tight-lipped over their identity.

Vaughan Coveny: Kiwi striker has signed a 3-year deal with South Melbourne ending speculation that he would sign for Newcastle.

'Boutsi' Undecided

Where will Boutsi play? He is a frequent fixture in the food court at Chadstone Shopping Centre where he recently confirmed to fans that South haven't offered him a contract.

Boutsi had a great season up front for South once the dispute with the Kingz was resolved but he may have upset his employers on the morning of the all important final against Olympic Sharks, which South lost.

Enquires today to South Melbourne on Boutsi were met with a firm "no comment".

Knights AGM

Melbourne Knights froze all recruiting and planning until their AGM which was completed last week.

The Knights refrained from signing any players including DaCosta and Joel Porter who have since departed Somers Street.

Knights General Manager Robert Hersic told ABSW "We are going into the season with a reduced playing budget. We are sustaining losses; the only way we can reduce those losses is to reduce player costs".

With the AGM concluded the Knights expect to announce several new recruits over the next few weeks.

Club President Ange Cimeria announced "The Melbourne Knights would like to put to an end to recent speculation about moving venues next season. Relocating to another venue is simply not cost effective."

New Knights Sponsor

ESP Tecforce have re-signed as major sponsors of the Melbourne Knights for 2002/03.

Further good news from Somers Street is the pending announcement of a second major sponsor, which is expected to be consummated prior to the weekend. Other sponsorship announcements can be expected prior to round one.

South & Knights to Travel

Both Victorian NSL teams are heading to Asia as part of their pre-season preparation.

Massimo Murococa: The 18-year-old former Joey Star picked up South Melbourne's rising star award.

Last year the Knights went to Vietnam, a successful exercise which is being repeated this year. Details are being finalised but the Knights expect to play three games in Vietnam.

Meanwhile South Melbourne will travel to China for a training camp and up to three friendlies. The details for South China experiment will be finalised shortly.

Young Knights Star Trialing Overseas

Young Andy Bourakis, a member of the successful Knights Youth team arrived in Austria for several trials.

Bourakis, whose father is a director at South Melbourne expects the trials to continue for 2 weeks. In addition to his work at the Knights, Bourakis was training in part with Con Boutsi through last season.

South Awards Ball

Last Saturday night over 400 supporters, sponsors and guests attended the awards ball following Souths successful 2001/02 season.

Massimo Murococa won the South Melbourne Rising Star Award. Vaughan Coveny took out the Top Goalscorer Award while veteran Mehmet Durakovic was voted Players Player of the Year by the players.

Player of the Year went to Patrick Kisorbo who is currently travelling in New Zealand with the Socceroos.

Former President George Vasilopoulos was awarded the prestigious Papasavas Award acknowledging his outstanding individual contributions to the Club.

The players partners frequently turn heads at these functions. This standard was maintained on Saturday night with the partner demanding the most attention being defender Steve Iosifidis, who was accompanied by his new baby daughter.

VIS TO TACKLE SCOTS IN SPAIN

By Roy Hay

Head coach Ernie Merrick is leading a Victorian Institute of Sport squad on a Spanish tour which will include four matches against their opposite numbers from Catalonia and Scottish Institute of Sport this month.

Merrick's Scottish connections are well known.

He was born and brought up there before coming to Australia, and they have been reinforced recently when he completed his European professional coaching licence under former Scottish manager Craig Brown.

The squad will be based at the Centre d'Alt Rendiment (CAR) in Barcelona and will play some Catalan teams on, before facing the Scottish Institute for the first time on Sunday.

The second match against the Scots will be on Wednesday 10 July and the team returns home the next day.

The purpose of the tour is to simulate a World Cup experience for the young players, as it is only a matter of time until some of this current squad progress to international representation.

Past Australian representatives who have come through the VIS include Scott McDonald, Joey Di Iorio and Joshua Kennedy who were members of the Joys who finished runners-up to Brazil in the World Youth Cup in New Zealand 1999.

Olyroos at the Olympics in Sydney included Vince Grella, Dragi Nastevski, Con Blatsis and Simon Colosimo.

The current squad consists of Christian Morales, Adrian Leijer, Dean Vasic, Manny Karas, Brendan Beni, Carl Recchia, Evan Karavitis, Sammy De Vito, Michael Sham Yuen, Ahmet Ikiz, Chris Greechan, Steve Pantelidis, Kristian Sarkies, Goran Petrovic, Ricky Chillico, Furkan Yildirim, Cameron Watson, Bobby Gorcevski and Derrick Chisholm.

Sporting them will be Head Coach Ernie Merrick; Assistant Coach Aaron Healey, Sports Scientists, Anita Pedrana and Troy Flanagan, Strength Coach Morgan Williams and Physiotherapist Jane Pihan.

Ernie Merrick: VIS Head Coach.

JURIC, HUGHES & KOHLER RE-SIGN WITH THE SHARKS

A trio from the championship winning Olympic Sharks outfit will stay in Sharks colours after agreeing to terms with the southern Sydney based club.

Defenders Ante Juric and Paul Kohler have agreed to terms with the Sharks and will be at Toyota Park for the next two seasons, while veteran custodian Brett Hughes has extended his contract for a further year. Juric regarded by many as one of the best playing currently playing in the NSL is best remembered for his show of courage when he took the field against the Perth

Glory in the Subiaco Oval Grand Final after suffering a dislocated elbow only a week before against Newcastle and is currently in New Zealand as a part of Frank Farina's squad contesting the Oceania Nations Cup.

For the 22-year-old Kohler, last season marked the coming of age for the stopper. Although still a junior among many in the NSL his partnership with Juric and Jade North proved to be one of the most effective and he himself was an integral part of coach Gary Phillip's plans in the play-off series.

The signing of the duo means that the bulk of last season's championship winning squad will have remained together, strengthening Olympic's chance for a second consecutive title.

Goalkeeping veteran Brett Hughes has extended his contract by a further year.

The 33-year-old will remain with the Sharks for one more season and is considered a good choice as cover for Olympic's number one keeper, Clint Bolton.

ABSW AND TRAPATTONI

While visiting Florence, Italy, in '99, ABSW's Joe Russo spotted a familiar face in the crowd amongst a few tourists.

It was none other than Italian National Coach Giovanni Trapattoni.

Russo explained that 'Trap' was extremely polite as he took the time out in speaking to him about his coaching duties at his old club Fiorentina, whom he coached at the time.

After a dismal World Cup where Italy were controversially knocked out by Co-hosts Korea, Trapattoni will still be at the helm of the Azzurri.

THE "ARSEY" DARCY?

By Ben Moring

There would not have been many pundits that would have bravely predicted Brazil to win the recent World Cup and further more, that Ronaldo would shake off his injuries to become the Golden Boot winner.

But skills coach Dusan 'Darcy' Purac did just that. In a recent interview with this paper (May 28th, 2002), Purac was asked who would win the World Cup: "Brazil and Ronaldo will be the best player", he said.

German keeper Oliver Kahn won the Golden Ball award for the best player, but the decision was made before the final and had the judges voted after the finale, then Ronaldo may well have got the nod.

Purac teaches his version of the game akin to the skilful Brazilian way and so his belief in that style never wavered. A wise prediction from a man who has played at the top level in Europe for such teams as Novi Sad and Dinamo Zagreb and also coached former Croatian captain Zvonimir Boban and Dejan Savicevic amongst others.

Therefore it isn't surprising that many so called 'experts', who haven't played the game at any level, were well wide of the mark.

KANGA CUP COMMENCES

By Graham Cooke

The 2002 Kanga Cup International Youth competition opened in spectacular fashion on Sunday with a 20-minute parade through Canberra's main shopping centre before the 4000 competitors, representing 207 teams, squeezed into Civic Square.

A decision by Soccer Canberra organisers to bring the opening ceremony into town rather than hold it at a suburban sporting venue, was an unqualified success and officials were predicting the event will lead to increased sponsorship and greater support from the ACT Government.

One long-time observer even commented the Kanga Cup was on a springboard that will see it double its already record-breaking representation within five years.

Leading the parade were 200 players and officials from the United States, which for several years has been the major international support for the Kanga Cup. Fears that the September 11 terrorist attacks would lead to a fall-off in American attendance, proved unfounded.

China produced an under-17 boys' team with coach Ma Guo Rong predicting there would be many more in future years, especially as Canberra was now a sister city of Beijing. There were also representation from New Zealand and every Australian state and territory apart from Tasmania and the Northern Territory.

Officials were playing down the absence of Fiji, who did not follow up on an earlier undertaking to send a team, and Ghana, whose representatives had their visas refused by the Australian Government.

Competition manager Mark Louis said he had been told by the Department of Immigration that the visas would not be forthcoming. "They did not give a reason," he said.

It is not the first this has happened. Two years ago the representatives of the Republic of Georgia were refused entry, despite a team from that country having attended without incident at the previous season's competition.

Play began yesterday and will continue until the finals on Sunday.

ACT WRAP UP

By Graham Cooke

The top three teams in the ACT Premiership hit the goal scoring jackpot on Sunday, netting 20 goals between them as Canberra Deakin moved to within two points of wrapping up first place.

Deakin slammed Capital City Suns 8-1 for the biggest margin of the day. They were 4-1 up in the first 15 minutes and went on to hand the Suns their worst loss of the season.

Stephen Lee scored four for Deakin, backed by the premiership's leading scorer, Zvonka Usljebrka, with two. Scott Manson and Alex Castro completed the rout.

Second placed Juventus virtually kept pace with the league leaders with a 7-1 win over bottom club Weston Creek Royals. Neil Stoddart claimed a hat trick with Oscar Zamora (2), George Cattanaich and Matt Valeri rounding off the scoring.

The competition's youngest striker was also in form, Matthew Menser, celebrating his call-up for the Canberra Rockets squad to travel to Adelaide later this month, claimed a hat trick in a surprisingly easy 5-0 romp over Canberra Olympic. Loric David struck the other two.

And Belconnen United recorded their first win in a month by beating Monaro 2-0 with goals from Lee Rupil and Clinton Larfield. Monaro added to their problems by having two players sent off in the second half.

United reclaimed fourth place with the win and with Monaro and the Suns going through horror spells, and the prospect of Daniel Camara's return from a 14-game suspension imposed last season, they look a good bet to hang on to it.

Premier League Review By Glenn Davis

QUEENSLAND WRAP UP

By Glenn Davis

Queensland Lions coach Miron Bleiberg has dismissed nearest rivals Brisbane City as a threat to their championship aspirations despite a scoreless draw against Ipswich Knights at Eric Evans Reserve on Sunday.

Lions missed a golden opportunity to stretch their premiership lead to five points against Ipswich after Brisbane City also was held to a nil-all home draw against relegation threatened Mt. Gravatt the previous night.

Bleiberg was furious with some controversial refereeing decisions with one goal disallowed and several yellow cards handed out to his players.

"The referee didn't protect us after Ipswich came at us like kamikazes and we retaliated through frustration," Bleiberg said.

"They made 100 fouls and we made ten.

"We hit the post twice and their keeper made two good saves but we had one goal disallowed and I still don't know why.

"I don't think Brisbane City have the quality to beat us (for the premiership) and they're only just hanging in there.

"I would be more worried if Gold Coast were in Brisbane City's position."

Ipswich coach Andy Ogden believed a draw was a fair result but was annoyed credit was not given to the Knights for a good performance.

"I thought they were lucky not to have Steve Dawe sent off after he punched Stu Drinkeld," Ogden said.

"We never seem to get any credit. It was a great turnaround after they thumped us 5-nil in the Queensland Cup midweek.

"We were good enough to hold them and they weren't good enough to break us down."

Bleiberg's comments are certain to fuel a bitter rivalry with Brisbane City.

City coach Frank Pimblett believed his side's draw with Mt. Gravatt was a mere "bump in the road" and was still confident of taking the title even before Lions' draw with Ipswich.

Miron Bleiberg: Queensland Lions coach was furious over the poor decisions made by the referee during last Sunday's match against the Ipswich Knights.

"For the last three weeks we've scored the winner in the last ten minutes but not this time," Pimblett said.

"We're still in the premiership race."

Brisbane City's trump card, Mark Battistin, has been the side's match winner in recent weeks but the side's reliance on him finding the net was revealed when the big striker was sent-off in the 80th minute.

Battistin was given his marching orders after manhandling Mt. Gravatt midfielder Alan Gordon.

The match offered few goal scoring opportunities but the ones that did eventually all fell for the home side.

Striker Glen Kolpak had one golden opportunity to break the deadlock in the first half but was denied by a superb one-on-one effort from Hawks' veteran keeper Graham Ross.

"We dominated the game and it was as good as we've played for a few weeks," Pimblett said.

"I was happy with the effort but we didn't finish off.

"Their keeper made some great saves and kept them in the game."

Mt Gravatt coach Jarrod Austin was pleased with the point but is well aware his side is not clear of relegation.

"We've got Toowoomba next week at home then Rochdale Rovers and Wynnum," Austin said.

"At the end of the day we can't afford to worry about other results as our destiny is in our own hands.

"If we don't win or get points in these games coming up we don't deserve to be in the league."

Coach Ashley Hempstead is confident The Gap can avoid the drop to first division after a shock 3-2 win over fourth placed North Star at O'Callaghan Park on Saturday night.

The Gap's goals came from a hat-trick from striker Levi Beel who terrorised North Star's defence with his strength and speed. North Star trailed 2-nil at half time and was behind by three goals in the second half before striker Shaun Blackman and Alan Cameron tucked home two late goals to give the home side a faint hope for a draw.

"I've got one of the most inexperienced sides in the league and we're going to make mistakes," Hempstead said.

"But it was a much improved performance and we've now taken four points off North Star after drawing with them in the first round.

"I really believe this win will give us the confidence to stay up now."

Hempstead had nothing but praise for Beel's performance and a sterling defence job from Matt McKenna.

"Beel was awesome. He's a lad who doesn't realise his ability," he said.

"He carved them up. Even when we lost 5-2 to Lions he carved them up at times.

"McKenna also defended superbly.

"Shaun Blackman is big and strong and was putting a lot of pressure on us but he stopped him."

A late penalty gave Rochdale Rovers its first win of the season over Toowoomba and opened up the premier league relegation battle.

Rochdale coach Keiran Cooper felt like he'd won the premiership after midfielder Gareth Dorey made no mistake with an 80th minute penalty after Sergio Franco was brought down in the box.

"We're still alive and it gives us something to aim for now," Cooper said.

"Our first goal is to get to get off the bottom which puts us in a play off situation with the second side in first division.

"I played in quite a few premiership winning teams but the feeling was the same when we won this match."

Taringa led 1-nil at half time after striker Nicky Kuyper finished off a good mid-field movement but had to be content with a draw after a late goal from Wynnum's Jacob Noe.

"Nicky had a goal disallowed in the first half from the edge of the box but the linesman ruled one of our players offside," Ogden said.

"I've always believed you can only be offside if you are interfering with play or in sight of the goalkeeper but the player wasn't.

"It was a contentious decision. Had we have been two-nil up at half time it would have been enough."

Ogden also believed Wynnum's should have been disallowed after it came from a challenge involving keeper Clint Del Santo.

"As Clint went up for the ball, Craig Collins got barreled and should have won a free-kick but play went on and they scored from it," he said.

Gold Coast picked up a valuable 1-nil win against Easts at Heath Park to stay third after a brilliant volley from striker Daniel Fung.

Easts coach Col Bennett believed the Tigers deserved a draw but a Top Six spot would depend on the side winning six of their last seven games.

However, Bennett also was realistic enough to realise that Easts were still not out of the woods of avoiding relegation after lower placed teams picked valuable points in the relegation battle.

AIS JETS OFF TO PARTICIPATE IN THE MILK CUP

The cream of Australia's youth talent, the AIS, has jetted off to Northern Ireland to compete in the renowned world youth tournament, the 'Milk Cup'. Having already competed in an Italian tournament (Gradisca) in mid-April of this year, the experience of playing clubs from all over the world will no doubt benefit these future stars of Australian soccer.

The tournament will commence on the 22nd of July and will conclude on the 26th. Coach Steve O'Connor will be taking a squad of 20 players, however will only be allowed to utilize 18 of them during the tournament.

Due to unfortunate injuries to two of their players (Jobe Wheelhouse and Chris Tadros), O'Connor has selected three players outside the AIS to replace the injured.

At the tender of age of 16, Jacob Timpano, a current Wollongong Wolves 1st grade player will be one of those new players taking the trip to Northern Ireland. Having captained the current U16 Australian squad in the Nations Cup this year, Timpano will use this tournament to further his experience as a player.

"Being new to the squad it took some time getting used to playing the AIS style of football. I've fitted in well with the team and I know I will benefit a lot during this prestigious tournament as it will give me that much needed experience on a world stage," said Timpano.

The other two new players accompanying Jacob is current VIS graduate Sam De Vito and Nick Mladanovic, who is currently playing for Victorian Premier League side St Albans in their reserve side.

The Milk Cup has been a stepping stone for many current English stars, i.e. Manchester United's David Beckham, Nicky Butt, Paul Scholes, Wes Brown, Blackburn's Damian Duff, Liverpool's Michael Owen and Danny Murphy are just some of the many names that have participated in this prestigious tournament.

24 teams will take part in Cup from across the globe, who are then placed in eight groups of three sides.

The AIS has drawn a tough group having England's Manchester City and Argentina's Independiente as part of a tough draw for the Australians.

Other famous clubs that have entered this year's Cup include Manchester United, Leeds United, Botofogo, Panathinaikos, Notts County, Crewe Alexandra and Preston North End, followed up by a number of Irish clubs.

As part of their preparation for the Milk Cup, coach O'Connor has organized friendly hit-outs in England with Premiership clubs Liverpool, Leeds, Sheffield Wednesday and Southampton, not all have confirmed but these will surely test the Aussie boys' skill and endurance.

Many of the young stars are looking forward to the Milk Cup as they believe that good performances could lead them to top clubs overseas.

Current custodian at the AIS Adam Federici hopes that the side does well in getting to the latter stages of the tournament. "It's a good tournament to be a part of, hopefully we can do well and get into the final stages of the tournament," said Federici. Former Victorian young talent of the year winner and VIS graduate Frank Lagana will use this tournament as a stepping stone towards a possible move overseas. "I'm hoping to play well with the side and hopefully get a call-up from some overseas clubs," said the former Whittlesea Stallions player.

While current AIS centre midfielder Nick Stavroulakis was optimistic at his team's chances by saying "the Milk Cup is a tournament filled with great sides. Playing against quality opposition will only further improve us as players. Of course a lot of the boys are looking to impress clubs overseas, however to get that impression you need to perform to the best of your ability," ended the former U17 Joey.

ABSW wishes the team well and will keep readers updated on their progress in the Milk Cup.

STAKES ARE HIGH AT YOUNG MATILDAS CAMP

Twenty-one players have been named to attend the final training camp before selection of the Young Matildas Team for the inaugural FIFA U19 Women's World Championship to be staged in Canada next month.

National Women's Youth Coach Mike Mulvey will put the athletes under the microscope commencing tomorrow (Wed) to 20 July on Queensland's Sunshine Coast, the warmer winter climes closer to conditions expected in Victoria, Canada where Australia will be playing its group matches.

The eighteen-member Australian U19 Team to hold the honour of competing in the first world championship for this age group is expected to be announced soon after the conclusion of the camp. The Young Matildas' first match at Canada 2002 is just five and a half weeks after the commencement of the camp.

The camp squad includes seventeen of the eighteen players who were successful in the Oceania U19 Qualifiers in Tonga two months ago to book Australia's passage to Canada 2002.

In addition, NSW midfielder Leah Blayney receives her first opportunity to make a late charge into the team, this being her first participation in Young Matildas camps or international. Mulvey has also called in defenders Kathryn Collins and Rose Dunne, the pair not involved since the Central Coast International Series last August. Both are defenders, although Dunne has only recently been converted to that position by NTC Coach Mark Jones and was part of the AIS camp last month. Lorissa Stevens returns after recovering from the knee injury which ruled her out of the team three days before departing for Tonga.

"We need to ensure we've got cover defensively," said Mulvey of the inclusion of Collins and Dunne for the camp. "Also, with the nature of injuries and the positions of those players, Leah has been brought in and could possibly fill a number of roles."

The camp will be a vital last assembly of players in preparation for departure for Canada. Two matches are scheduled into the ten-day program, against the Queensland State U14 Boys' Team, and the balance of the Queensland Academy of Sport Women's Squad.

Said Mulvey, "We have a couple of tough games lined up for the second part of the camp, whilst in the first part of the week we will assess the condition of the players, work on tactical play, and check those who have had time off recently through injury, to ensure we have the best possible team for Canada."

The FIFA U19 Women's World Championship will be contested 17 August to 1 September. A total of 82 countries competed in the qualifying stages of the event to determine the final twelve. Australia is drawn in Group C along with superpower USA, England, and Chinese Taipei. Also lining up in the battle for the coveted world crown are Brazil, Germany, Japan, Mexico, Denmark, Nigeria, France, and Canada.

TOP WORLD CUP COVERAGE ABSW!

Dear Sir,

Congratulations on your World Cup coverage. I was truly impressed by your in depth analysis, using your many different correspondents and in your match reports.

Regretfully I was unable to catch every game of the World Cup, yet caught the replays of the goals on television. I was delighted that when I picked up a copy of your paper, I was able to relate the goals to the context of the match and I must say thoroughly the styles of the reports that came with your many journalists.

Your colour page spread was terrific as you managed to capture as many elements of this tournament as possible. They added to the vibrancy of your reports and helped bring it as close as possible to the soccer lovers of Australia.

I however would like to suggest that this level of coverage continues for major international competitions. We saw how the general public was gripped by the World Cup and am confident that we have received many new converts to the game.

You as the only paper to concentrate solely on soccer have a mission to continue to promote the world game and this can be done by covering major competitions, like that of Japan/South Korea.

Once again though congratulations. I was a totally enjoyable experience and I feel privileged to have known about your paper. Well done!

Richard Watson
Kellyville, NSW.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The World Cup for everyone at ABSW was one that will be remembered forever.

For most of us here at the offices it was our first taste at an event such as huge as the World Cup. Every week we at ABSW had a new task in delivering the best possible information to the readers.

I'd like to say thank you to our six World Cup correspondence (Rale Rasic, Colin Turner, Craig Foster, Alain Barlaud, Peter Katholos and Kelly Cross) for providing us with the a weekly column on the Cup itself. It was an amazing event, not just in a soccer sense, but by media standards, was brilliant for the game as it good top priority in Australia - something it hardly gets every other year.

SOCCEEROOS IN NEW ZEALAND

Dear Sir,

I think it will be interesting to see how Australia fares at the upcoming Oceania Nations Cup tournament.

While the side only contains one overseas based player in Scott Chipperfield (he should be congratulated on his choice to pay his own way to represent his country), the make-up of the squad is quite a healthy mix of the old heads of the NSL and the up and coming stars.

Their collective skill should easily overcome the island nations and by the time the final comes about should be in practice enough to overcome what should be the All-Whites. Their participation in this tournament will only serve to improve their reputations and help in their exposure on the international scene.

Which brings me to my next point. Paul Okon was seen on the World Cup Show and what I fail to understand is why he did not put up his hand to be a part of the Soccerroos squad. It is obvious that he was not tied up with any overseas commitments, as he was more than happy to be a guest on SBS' show and more than happy to venture back home to Australia for an off-season break.

As the Australian captain he is not giving a particularly good example as to the meaning entailed in this role and to me displays sheer contempt to his fellow soccer players for not declaring himself available for the tournament, when it is plainly obvious he was in Australia when Frank Farina was assembling his squad for their New Zealand adventure.

Good Luck to those players who were more than happy to pay their own way for the sake of the green and gold. To the others-take a good look at yourself.

Soccer in this country would be improved greatly if those European prima-donnas recognized that this sport had given them the opportunity to become what they are and they should be willing to give back to the game that has given them so much!

Sam Ashton,
Belconnen, ACT.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The current Soccerroos will no doubt make the country proud in the up and coming Nations Cup. The squad mainly consists the best NSL talent at the moment, and even though they've been classed as 'Dad's Army', they will all do the job no questions asked.

As for Paul Okon, I can't comment on his situation, however it is strange that being in the country, he was not selected for the Nations Cup. I assume he's in the process of looking for a club, time will only tell.

CHIPPERFIELD - A GREAT STORY

Dear Sir,

Reading last week's edition I was delighted to read an article on Scotty Chipperfield.

Long has the media forgotten about this man who has done great things for Australian soccer. It's always the case that we hear in other papers about Viduka, Kewell etc, all good players, but someone tell these people that there are loads more Aussies out there.

Credit to your paper for giving Scotty the recognition he deserves, being the only international in the current Soccerroo squad, it only justifies my point of not only being a good player, but a patriotic one as well.

Walter Hagens,
Balgownie, NSW.

EDITOR'S NOTE: It was a pleasure interviewing Chipperfield for the paper, his professionalism is second to none. He has done great things overseas and unfortunately they have gone unnoticed in this country. Expect to hear more updates on the man that could fair in the French Champions at next season?

ABSW ALL THE WAY!

Dear Sir,

Just a quick note about the top exposure the World Cup had in the paper this past month. It was a joy to read, I'm from Parkes, and the TV coverage was not enough for all of us to indulge in, we want more.

Credit to the paper that covered it so well with reports from every match, I don't think you missed one out, and the photos were fantastic.

Steven Mills,
Parkes, NSW.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Cheers for the comments, as I mentioned in the other letter it was a pleasure to cover such an event, glad that many people enjoyed the coverage!

BRING BACK THE UNDER 16'S COMPETITION!

Dear Sir,

I've an interesting question for the New South Wales Soccer Federation.

A few months ago a question was asked about the return of the Under-16s Division to the Youth League competition.

No answer was given that I know of, apparently as there was a new President elected. Now that we have a few President, what about an answer!

Six months down the track there's still no answer. I feel sorry for the kids who will need to make a decision soon about their soccer future.

Why doesn't the NSWSF ask at the grassroots level about what the kids and the parents want?

Considering that the parents are almost always the ones that run the clubs, even at Youth League level, and that they are the ones that run the kids from Newcastle to Nowra week in week out, don't they have a say?

There are a lot of kids and parents who, I'm sure you'll find, have totally differing views and opinions as to how the game should be run than the few supposedly smart people at the top level who think they know all the answers.

Remember that these are the parents who pay the levy through the State Federations for Soccer Australia to survive.

We have State Under 16s, and a Young Joeys National team composed mainly of 16 year olds, and yet no Youth League Under 16 competition.

Where will the kids from the Premier Youth League Under 15s and other divisions go because some clubs only have true Under 17s, not Under 16s, in their top age group, eg: Leichhardt Tigers?

Let some people have the guts to give us an answer. I think we want our Under 16s back next season!

S. Rossi,
Bossley Park

RESPONSE From NSWSF's Corporate Communications, Media & Marketing Manager Adam Mark.

Dear S. Rossi

Thank you for your letter regarding the New South Wales Soccer Federation (NSWSF) Youth League and the issue of an U/16's competition.

To give you a little background to this issue, at the beginning of the 2000 season, the NSWSF introduced a Premier League which was a Summer First Grade and U/19's competition.

The clubs identified that there was a large age gap between U/16 to U/19 and players found it difficult progressing to the senior ranks. As a result, in the following 2001 Super Youth League season an U/17 competition replaced the U/16's. With the success of this initiative, in the following 2002 season all Youth League Competitions comprised of U/13, U/14, U/15 & U/17's.

Recent research conducted by the NSWSF Assistant Competition Secretary (Youth Competition), Mr Bruce Waterhouse, on the NSWSF U/17 age group across the Premier, Super and Division One Youth Leagues has found that:

- Of the 648 registered players across all U/17 Leagues, 46.14% (299 players) are actually U/16
- In the Premier Youth League 43.25% of U/17 players are actually U/16
- In the Super Youth League 46.04% of U/17 players are actual U/16
- In Division 1 Youth League 49.08% of U/17 players are actually U/16
- Only one club (Leichhardt Tigers) has no U/16 players

The reason that the Nationals are U/16's is because that particular tournament is part of the selection process for the Under 17 National team (The Joeys), who then compete in the FIFA Under 17 World Championships which are held every 2 years (2003 tournament to be held in Finland).

ATTENTION ALL BAYERN MUNICH SUPPORTERS!

Dear Sir,

I am wishing to let your readers that I really keen on getting on contact with fans of FC Bayern Muenchen. It has dawned on me that arguably one of the world greatest and most prestigious football clubs has never had any sort of fan club in Australasia.

At the moment there are organised Bayern supporters in countries Kenya to China, and from Austria to Venezuela. So I reckon it is time that something was organised here in Australia, as I have seen heaps of people in FCB shirts at both NSL and Soccerroo games.

If you ARE a passionate supporter of FC Bayern, and are keen on getting something organised, you can get in contact with me (in either English or German) on 0438 890 490 or by email at rednwhitefanatic@yahoo.com. Be you an expat Bavarian or a non-German speaking Aussie, I would love to hear from you!

Hier regiert der FCB!

Julian Farrell

EDITOR'S NOTE: Come on you Bayern supporters, all the information is here for you, join the cause for a quality world side.

GALAXY SHOOTING FOR LEAGUE AND CUP DOUBLE

Two moments of magical skill from two of South Australia's most talented players Jimmy Tsekis and Anthony Deptula decreed that Adelaide Galaxy and Croydon Kings should contest the West End Federation Cup final on Saturday, August 17.

Former Youth Soccer Tsekis performed his match saving act when his star-studded Galaxy team was two goals down to cup holders, the Playford Patriots.

At that delicate stage of the second semi-final, Playford deserved its lead and had a firm grip on the trophy, courtesy of a 16th minute strike from Damien DiMella and a fine insurance goal by Shane Pearce, three minutes before half time.

Galaxy were disadvantaged by the absence of ace midfielder Aaron Westervelt (suspended), Damian Stam (suspended) and Con Kokkinopitis (injured), while the Patriots went into the big game minus Tom Radford (injured), Neil Childs (suspended), James Monic (cup tied to Adelaide City) and Sam Farncombe (cup tied to Enfield Falcons).

Galaxy coach Milan Ivanovic changed his formation and his personnel from the start of the second half by introducing Nick Dawes for Andy Amegashie and Dustie McGregor for Shane Thompson.

The lively McGregor had an immediate impact, providing more opportunities for former South Melbourne players Tsekis and George Goutzioulis.

Not that the Galaxy were starved of scoring chances in the first half, but when they did manage to penetrate the iron clad Patriots defence of Mario Staltari, Andy Thomson and Lee Robertson, ex-

Melbourne Knights goalkeeper David Miller provided magnificent support.

The big man loomed as unbeatable until the 78th minute intervention of "Jinking" Jimmy Tsekis, who waltzed into the D to fire an unstoppable drive past Miller.

That was to be a breakthrough of enormous proportions as Galaxy lifted its game to force an unlikely recovery.

Substitute McGregor nodded home to level at 2-2 with just three minutes of normal time left, before supplying a pass for Tsekis to ram a shot against the near post on the stroke of 90 minutes.

Extra time brought extra thrills with Pearce fining over the Galaxy crossbar in his quest for the golden goal before Miller tipped the ball over his goal to save Lucto

DaRocha the embarrassment of an own goal.

It was left to lanky Dawes to grab the golden moment in the 113th minute as he rammed in a low drive that flicked into the net via the inside of the post.

CROYDON CUP KINGS?

The fluctuating fortunes of State League club Croydon Kings took an upward swing on Wednesday night when they topped Premier League team Raiders with a Golden Goal extra-time win in the first West End Cup semi-final at Hindmarsh Stadium.

Croydon won the famous knock-out trophy in 2000, but the following season was relegated to the State League.

Now, two years on, the Kings are on the cusp of a stunning league and cup double and staring at the bright prospect of returning to the Premier League in season 2003.

On their way to the final, Croydon downed State League opponents Cobras and Northern Demons before chopping out tall poppies Adelaide City and Raiders.

Wednesdays assignment was never going to be easy as Raiders attempted to erase the infamy of only winning one of their last four league games.

Raiders steamed onto the right track with a 57th minute goal from State team striker Sam Barbaro who wiggled into the Croydon box to slant a drive past Kings custodian Danny Christison.

However, the notion that Croydon was more a Premier League team in waiting than a State League outfit, became increasingly evident as Shane Porter directed defensive operations from his sweeper spot, while the Woods brothers Marc and Craig, and Josh Richardson teamed effectively with Sam McMillan.

Croydon coach Ernie Luongo thrust Anthony Deptula into the cup cauldron in the 63rd minute, a substitution that was to prove a master stroke.

Eight minutes from full time, Deptula rewarded his coach by rising to meet a cross from Brad Donovan to flick a deft header past Raiders goalkeeper Mate Maric for the crucial leveller.

The arctic conditions were momentarily forgotten in the 112th minute of extra-time as Deptula netted the most golden of glittering goals to send Croydon into its second cup final in three years.

Initially, Deptula drove a close range shot goalwards that Maric did well to redirect to the eager predator.

Deptula responded brilliantly by leaping to execute a magnificent bicycle kick, an overhead that sent the Croydon fans into ecstasy.

That goal of the tournament was worthy of the Golden Goal tag and certainly provided a fitting fashion to claim a place in the final.

WEST END CUP SEMI-FINALS

Croydon Kings 2 (Deptula 82, 112th Golden Goal) Raiders 1 (S. Barbaro 57).

Ange Postecoglou: Australian Youth Coach has been given the task of guiding the 'Australis' to victory in the Festival Cup.

COLD COMFORT

Croydon Kings player Brad Donovan must have felt a tang of disappointment when he began last Wednesdays West End Cup semi-final on the bench.

His frustration eased when with 11 minutes of normal time left, Donovan was called into action by coach Ernie Luongo.

But, the extra-time drama reached ridiculous proportions when Donovan was forced off the field by the blood rule.

After trying on a succession of different shirts, Donovan attempted to get back into the hectic action, but each time he was rejected by referee Craig Zetter.

Topless Donovan stood shivering on the frigid touchline, while the offering spot of blood was washed off his original garment by a Croydon official.

Eventually, Donovan was allowed back onto the field and was able to produce the telling pass that brought the winning goal.

POSTECOGLOU POSTED

National Youth coach Angie Postecoglou has been appointed to coach the "Australis" the Australian youth team to contest the Festival Cup 2002 at Adelaide's Hindmarsh Stadium from August 3-11.

Juventus (Italy), Vasco da Gama (Brazil), Glasgow Rangers (Scotland), Ajax (Holland), Bayern Munich (Germany), Newcastle United (England) and Shandong Luneng Taishan (China) will provide the opposition for the hosts.

The tournament will be played over eight days (including two weekends) at Hindmarsh, the purpose built soccer facility where one of the Sydney Olympic football tournament groups was successfully staged.

The series will feature the largest assemblage of international club teams ever to visit Australia.

SAD LOSS

ABSW extends its deepest sympathy to ASA coach Mike Barnett and his family on the death of his mother and their grandmother Barbara last week.

Barbara Barnett was the first woman to hold the position of chairman at the West Torrens Birkalla Soccer Club.

Birkalla president Jack Smith said Barbara Barnett had been a respected and valued club official who had contributed greatly to the success of the club.

Readers Digest on the World Cup

Alas the 2002 World Cup has come and gone and the big question on everybody's lips is where did all that time go? Well as the old saying goes, time flies when you're having fun and that was surely the case in the 2002 World Cup. So much drama, action and controversy this tournament, football was the talk of the country. Now that it's all over, many people have returned to their normal lives, no more afternoon or night sessions of watching a live match, no more SBS soccer shows, no more coverage in leading newspapers and television stations, it's become a recession for all soccer followers.

Many fans are gearing up for the start of their respective leagues across the globe. Australian, Italian, Spanish, Greek and English leagues will all start in October-November. Below are four articles written by free-lance journalists which discuss their views on the 2002 World Cup.

Referees at World Cup: Blame, chances or conspiracy?

By Roy Hay

The referees at the World Cup have come in for even more criticism than usual in 2002. Among the complaints are incorrect offside decisions, inappropriate yellow and red cards for simulation, that is cheating by attackers who feign being knocked over in the penalty box, inadequate policing of shirt-pulling, failure to award penalty kicks for handball and one case of adjudging the ball to be out of play when the whole of the ball had not crossed the line.

It is a superficially powerful case for the prosecution and has led to accusations of conspiracy against them by teams which have been on the wrong end of the decisions, including the Italians, the Spaniards and the Portuguese. In response the referees have hit back by pointing out egregious errors by players as the main cause of the defeats suffered by the fancied teams, while the FIFA authorities have been very ambivalent about the referees and their assistant referees. The president of FIFA, Joseph Blatter described some of the offside decisions as a 'disaster' while the Chair of the Referees Committee has defended his officials saying the standard has been generally high. Three questions arise. Have the decisions been poor? If so, why? How can they be improved?

The only fair test of the first question would be to re-run all the decisions of a particular official, not just the one that causes the controversy. If this were done then I suspect you would find that the 'worst' official at the World Cup got about 98 per cent of decisions right. How many players would go through a match with such a record?

Each referee and assistant is subject to scrutiny and inspection and after each match the decisions are gone through time and again by inspectors with a view to pointing out errors and showing referees how to avoid them in future. What has happened as technology has improved is that the viewer at home or the coach or official watching the video replay at the game itself is being presented with several, more versions of the incident, speeds significantly lower than that at which they take place on the field. So more 'errors' appear even though refereeing standards are generally improving.

But this is the World Cup you reply and these officials are there because they are expected to get every decision right. In that case, please take up computer games because no human being can be right every time in every game of soccer. Now let's look at some of the decisions to see if we can find any reasons why errors occur.

Let's tackle the content of offside decisions first. The rule is that the player must be in line with the last outfield defender at the moment the ball is played to him by one of his teammates. The assistant referee is the judge and he should be positioned in line with the last defender. Even with excellent peripheral vision it is physically impossible for the assistant to see the passer and the receiver simultaneously outside an arc of about forty-five degrees. This limits very significantly the area on the pitch in which the assistant can give an accurate decision. If the ball comes from outside that arc, the assistant referee must turn his head from the attacker to the passer and back again and that takes time. Even if that time is as little as one tenth of a second the attacker can have moved nearly a metre, which makes him appear clearly offside and cause the official to raise his flag. So it needs no conspiracy theory to explain why apparent mistakes occur in this instance.

Next let's look at shirt pulling and diving. The former always went on and has become much more common as referees have cracked down on other more violent offences such as tripping, elbowing or block tackling. Referees are being called upon to crack down on shirt pulling. But since at any corner kick for example, there may be five defenders and five attackers jostling for position then at least half of them may be pulling or being pulled at the same time. Singling one out for exemplary punishment is likely to bring the charge of partiality down on the referee's head, while booking five at once would be regarded as overkill.

Simulation or diving is easier to police since it only involves two players at most, the defender and the attacker seeking to gain advantage. Getting the angles right and the sequence is critical here. In the case of the Italian Francesco Totti, while he was touched by the Korean defender, if you look at the replay closely you will see that he was going down before contact was made. Two top grade referees to whom I spoke about this agreed. Incidentally the defender also played the ball first. The referee got this one exactly right. Totti was only sent off because he had already received a yellow card. He has no one to blame but himself.

So how can we improve decision-making? Is the use of technology particularly video replays the answer? I suspect not. Using video evidence only shifts the locus of decision-making? But you may say soccer is a low scoring game so we must ensure that the key decisions are correct. Even with video, marginal cases would still arise and if we had to wait ten minutes while people agitated over whether a ball struck a hand or was struck by a hand, crossed a line or did not cross the line, player A contacted B, or was contacted by B, we would cease to have soccer as we have known it. There have been several revisitations of the Geoff Hurst 'goal' in the 1966 World Cup final which have come up with conflicting results and still no definitive judgment. Experience in the United States where all this technology has long been available is instructive. The use of video replays for vetting umpire's decisions was used but has now been abandoned in American football. Baseball, which is another low scoring game, relies on the vision and judgment of humans for all key decisions, ball's versus strikes, in or out at bases, fair catches or fouls.

Cricket is experimenting with video replays for run-outs and catches with mixed results and a developing sense that this is undermining the independence and confidence of the umpires on the pitch.

Any high-tech breaks of the flow of soccer, to be a valid alternative, must be a game that is not broken by a referee's intervention. A device which might assist without breaking the flow would be an official's by an audible warning device so that assistants could alert the referee to a foul or an offside in addition to raising the flag. When one of Australia's top officials Eugene Brazzale ran the line at the World Youth Cup in 1993 his central referee and the inspector commented that they could hear the crack of his flag as it shot up as well as see it, helping reinforce the message, but still leaving the decision in the hands of the referee. You can't hear a flag at a World Cup with 40,000 Koreans in full voice but a deeper or vibrating buzzer could convey the message.

But the best way to ensure good results is to have the best officials in place for the most contentious and important games. Training and experience at the highest level do make a difference. Familiarity with the players and their characteristics also help. So the case for appointing the best referees and assistants to key games is strong and perhaps should take precedence over the desire to raise the standard of officiating generally by exposing less experienced officials to top games.

Commentators of the World Cup

By Joe Russo

Korea/Japan 2002 may be over but the memory of a World Cup in our time zone will linger on. Prior to the commencement of the tournament there were fears that we might not be able to see every game.

Channel 9 had secured coverage to 16 matches but what was going to happen to the other 48? SBS stepped in and covered the breach and, much to everyone's relief, all World Cup matches would be on free-to-air television.

So just how did the dual networks handle the World Cup? The last time a similar arrangement was made was for Mexico 86 when the ABC and SBS split the World Cup. However, this time it was different. In 1986 they were both Government funded channels but now it was the mighty Channel 9, with all its other sporting commitments, sharing with SBS Channel 9's first real venture into soccer was a juggling act for the network. Aussie Rules, Rugby League and Wimbledon also had to be covered. So where did soccer fit in?

In the end it fitted in very nicely. Soccer seemed very much at home on the commercial television giant. As for SBS, the real soccer network, everyone knew that they would do a superb job.

Channel 9 to their credit didn't use Eddie McGuire or Ken Sutcliffe or another network favourite to handle the World Cup. They rightly opted for soccer people. Andy Harper, who had worked previously on SBS, was the host. Although he got off to a nervous start, he progressed very nicely. Harper in his previous television roles was always the expert rather than the host. Now he was in at the deep end covering the world's biggest event. Harper survived and passed the test.

The experts were Gary Phillips and Graham Arnold. No introductions required for them to the soccer fans but their television experience was certainly very limited.

In the end both came through and did a satisfactory job considering that they too were thrown in at the deep end. Phillips is a fairly lively character and Arnold will need to become so as well, if he hopes to progress in his media career. The downfall for Channel 9 was the set. For the first few games they sat on comfortable chairs but then they came out with the brown boring set. It looked like it may have arrived here with the First Fleet in 1788. It was terrible.

The Channel 9 commentators for the early games were average, Gary Bloom, John Helm and Steve Banyard all sound very similar. Tony Gubba thought that Christian Vieri was Vieri on several occasions. For the England v Argentina clash they took the call of John Moison and Trevor Brooking from English television. Moison is a great commentator but Brooking is extremely one-eyed in favour of England. They lasted about 80 minutes before Channel 9 lost them and then picked up another commentator for the remaining minutes. In the end Channel 9 borrowed Martin Tyler from SBS and the standard lifted dramatically for the semi-finals and final. Tyler is greatest soccer commentator in the English-speaking world. SBS, who had brought us four previous World Cups, did a great job overall. Not since 1986 did they have to play second fiddle when covering a World Cup.

Having secured the rights only weeks before the start for the remaining 48 games, their effort was mammoth.

A brand new, techno coloured set with a glass table was unveiled as the centrepiece of their broadcast. For Italy, they had Andy Paschalidis and Charlie Yankos in the studio and Les Murray and Johnny Warren in some beautiful villa in Rome holding up the daily papers from Italy.

For USA 94 they had Les and Johnny on top of a building in San Francisco and for France 98 they were on the patio of some house in Paris, which was converted to a studio, with the Eiffel Tower as a backdrop.

For Korea/Japan 2002 it was the glass table, which will be forever remembered as part of this World Cup. It was a modern and very appealing studio and one that truly reflected SBS's attitude towards soccer. Channel 9's pre-historic set had nothing on this jazzy one.

Even after SBS had shown all their games they continued to run the mighty World Cup Show, glass table and all. Any other network would not cover an event especially if a rival was showing the matches. The SBS commentary team was superb. Tyler and David Smith, the latter not that well known in Australia, were superb. Alan Parry and Paul Dempsey, the other two commentators used by SBS, were just a notch behind Tyler and Smith.

One of the fascinating things about their coverage was the idea of the host, standing. Les Murray must well and truly have sore legs by now! Kyle Patterson, who had his turn standing as well when hosting, filled in well when required.

Johnny Warren, the icon of SBS soccer, was as always superb. Even allowing for his Brazilian bias, and the great lengths he went to pointing out how Brazil can defend, Warren's insights into a game are second to none. There is no more knowledgeable soccer expert on Australian television.

Craig Foster the new addition to the team is to be commended as well. Once you got the hang of his fast speaking pace, you realised that he really did know his stuff. Foster's versatility was amazing. In the afternoon he would appear on Channel 7 with Bruce MacAvaney on Sportswatch and then back up for SBS the same evening.

On the whole it was a job well done. All our worst fears prior to the tournament were put to rest. Channel 9 did come good and no one ever doubted SBS once they too picked up the rights. We must now wait another four years to see what will follow the glass table.

Look what we've done to our Race

By Mark Parrill

Yet another soccer World Cup has drawn to a close. The hangover has all but lifted, the trophy has returned to Rio, and the referees remain adamant that contrary to popular belief, no they do not need reading glasses, and their parents were in fact married when they were born.

It was a truly memorable four weeks, filled with moments of sheer ecstasy for some, agony for others. Who will ever forget Ronaldinho's masterstroke match-winning free kick for Brazil, the ball soaring gracefully above England into the back of the net? And you didn't have to be Uruguayan or Senegalese - or even a soccer fan - to experience the edge-of-your-seat tension as our South American friends came oh, so close to achieving the unachievable of comebacks.

But what I will remember most from this World Cup are the lessons. I am not referring to the acting and diving lessons provided by some of the players - though this did demonstrate that many have strong alternative career prospects after soccer. No, the lessons I am referring to are to be learned from events that took place off the field.

Once again, what was billed as the greatest show on earth was marred with acts of mindless violence. Goals and comebacks aside, etched on my mind are scenes like those from Moscow where angry fans went on the post-match rampage. Shop windows were smashed, and one poor individual's car was pulverised live on international television.

Imagine being the owner of that car, waking up in the morning unaware as to what was going on as you tuned into the morning news. You would be left agast, wondering who you had upset so much to deserve having your car turned into a punchbag by a gang of strangers.

Unbelievable as it may seem, the truth was that he lost his no-claims discount because several thousand kilometres away, eleven Japanese men kicked a ball into a net whereas eleven Russian men didn't. Or perhaps there was an exclusion clause for that on his insurance policy.

There were similar scenes in several cities around the world after other matches. All because one bunch of people felt that their team deserved to kick the ball in the net more than the other team, and got p****ed off that another bunch of people had a different opinion on the matter.

It sounds like a squabble between two kids in the school playground, taunting one another until one kid runs out of arguments and wallops the other in the nose as a last resort because he simply does not like to lose.

Several tragic and unnecessary conflicts have been started off by this very same basic human flaw. The problem is that when governments and extremists have differences of opinion, punches in the nose tend to get replaced by missiles, bullets and bombs. The Gulf War, the recent stand off between India and Pakistan, even the atrocities of and after September 11th - whether we like it or not, a difference of opinion is all that it took to trigger these events. "That's my outfield", "no it's not, it's mine." Or "get off my land", "hey, we were invited!" Wallop, crash, bang, Ouch.

If we were a truly intelligent species, we would be able to overcome this basic quasi-animal instinct. We would resolve our differences with our mouths and our ears rather than lashing out with our fists. What does violence prove anyway? I don't know what your school playground was like, but I never once saw a kid getting punched in the nose and then turning round and saying "I see what you mean now. Yes, I do have unfeasibly large ears." Imagine a playground free of punches and bloody noses.

What would the kids at that school look like? And what would the future hold for them? On the grander scheme of things, that's all the world is, after all. One giant playground full of big kids, who may have grown older, but have not necessarily learned how to grow up.

Why Video Replays Won't work for Soccer

By Ray Sandell

The 2002 World Cup will be remembered for one word. Conspiracy! According to all the pundits, including the once every four-year soccer experts, FIFA and the referees, and their assistants, had conspired to arrange for the two host countries to continue in the tournament at the cost of many so called "high fliers". Every time you opened a newspaper, listened to a radio program or turned on the television, that word was used. Conspiracy! What a load of rot!

If people took time to really think about it, how could it be done? Apart from the allegations that referees were fixed to disallow goals, send players off and give "dodgy" decisions, how could they organise for players to miss open goals and generally "stuff things up"? The thought of some of the best referees in the world arranging these things is absolutely ridiculous. True, we have had some bad decisions by both referees and assistants, but we have also had plenty of horrible mistakes by players and coaches. Now we have all the experts calling for video replays as in cricket and rugby league. This might work in these two sports but it will never work in soccer owing to the fact that soccer is faster and play is more continuous.

Players in soccer act on the referees whistle immediately. During the World Cup there were a number of instances that highlighted the fallacy of video decisions. During the game between Spain and Korea the assistant indicated, that in his opinion, the ball had gone out of play before a Spanish player headed the ball into the net. The "goal" was disallowed. The experts said that if there had been a video replay it could have been seen that the assistant's decision was wrong and the goal could have been allowed. BUT, if you look at the replay closely it is quite obvious that both the Korean goalkeeper and a defender had obviously heard the referees whistle indicating the ball had gone out of play and had made no effort to stop the Spanish player heading the ball into the net. They had automatically obeyed the referees signal, that play was stopped. If they had continued on it is quite possible that the Spanish player would not have scored.

In the match between Belgium and Tunisia, refereed by Australia's Mark Shield, Mark blew for an infringement by a Belgium defender on a Tunisian attacker but another Tunisian player immediately put the ball into the net. Again the experts said Mark was too quick on the whistle and should have played "advantage" and had robbed Tunisia of a goal. Maybe so as far as the advantage is concerned, but again if you study the film of the incident, it is again apparent that the Belgium goalkeeper had heard the whistle for the infringement and made no effort to stop the ball.

In a number of "offside" decisions by assistants that, shown on replays were wrong, players have "scored" but the "goal" disallowed. The call has again been for video replays so that the goal would have been allowed. Yet again it is quite obvious that some defenders have stopped play on the referee whistling in response to his assistant's flag. In these instances we would be penalising the defending team and giving the benefit to the attacking team should videos replays be used and goals awarded.

In summary, any video decision made after a referee blows his whistle is not worth the tape it appears on. Videos would only be effective for after-match decisions on incidents of an illegal nature carried out behind play, that none of the on field officials saw during the game, and for the identification of players involved in such incidents. If videos were used to adjudicate on incidents during the match, soccer would become a "stop-start" sport. The beauty of our game is the lack of stoppages compared with the two rugby codes.

The first thing soccer players are taught, is "to play to the referees whistle". It is natural for players to stop play on hearing the referees whistle. In fact players are penalised should they not obey the whistle, as in when the referee blows for offside, an attacker deliberately carries on and puts the ball into the net. This is a cautionable offence.

I would be the first to agree that teams suffer from poor decisions by both referees and their assistants, but they also suffer from bad decisions and mistakes from their own players, and coaches, but these are quickly forgotten. If a game is just it is seldom by the players, it is usually because of the ref!

Why not do away with the referees altogether and have all matches decided by video evidence? That would then do away with all the controversy. On second thoughts that wouldn't work either. The players and coaches of the losing team wouldn't have anybody to blame!

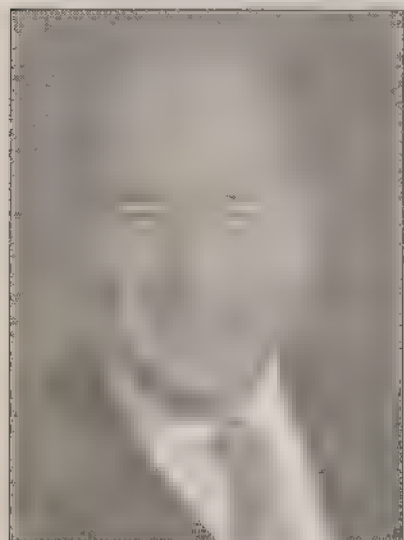

Oh! I forgot. There is always the person checking the video! They could blame him!

Blatter confirms Oceania's World Cup entry

By Daniel Kuzlow

After the hugely successful 2002 World Cup, FIFA President Sepp Blatter has once again stated his desire to see Oceania indulge in this tournament by stressing the need for their automatic entry at the 2006 World Cup and beyond.

Sepp Blatter: FIFA President has steered closer in giving Oceania direct qualification towards the next World Cup.

The decision comes following FIFA's executive meeting: "All Confederations shall have at least one team at the World Cup and therefore Oceania shall have direct access to the World Cup," Blatter said.

With FIFA already confirming that the current World Cup champions Brazil would not get automatic qualification (decided prior to the 2002 World Cup), one spot has been freed up and Blatter is optimistic that that spot will be freed up for Oceania. Blatter was confident his proposal would not be turned down.

A further point to come from the meeting was FIFA's continued support for the Confederations Cup to be held in 2003 and 2005.

A decision will be made in late September, on the successful applicant, with all final bids due by July 18, 2002 for the 2003 hosting rights. Five countries are already confirmed for the 2003 Confederations Cup with Japan representing Asia, Cameroon from Africa, Colombia from South America, the United States from CONCACAF, France from Europe plus Brazil as the current World Cup champion. Oceania's representative will be decided at the Oceania Football Confederation Nations Cup that starts on July 5. The final participant will be the host nation, making it eight in total.

The 2005 tournament has already been given to Germany as a dress rehearsal for their World Cup hosting the following year.

Colo Colo visit to help in funding of Junior clubs

By Daniel Kuzlow

The upcoming visit of Colo Colo to our shores will not only provide viewers the chance to see one of South America's greatest club sides in action, but their visit will correspond with an initiative aimed at building bridges between elite football and the huge grass roots soccer participation that Australia enjoys.

Zenith Football Management has announced that part of proceeds from this month's fixture between Chilean giants Colo Colo, and the Australia U23 team at Canberra Stadium on July 24, will be distributed proportionately toward junior soccer clubs in the Canberra region.

Victor Vives of Visionmax, has instituted this "Local Development Grant" where a percentage of ticket sales, will be handed back to the junior clubs.

Vice President of Soccer Canberra Dean Grandy

spoke to Visionmax representatives some time back about the need for a tangible flow of benefit, being passed down from the top, to the bottom, along the lines of a development fund.

ers. It is great that our developmental effort can now be supported financially from entities above us."

One junior club chairman, David Hough of Weston Creek Royals, stated that his

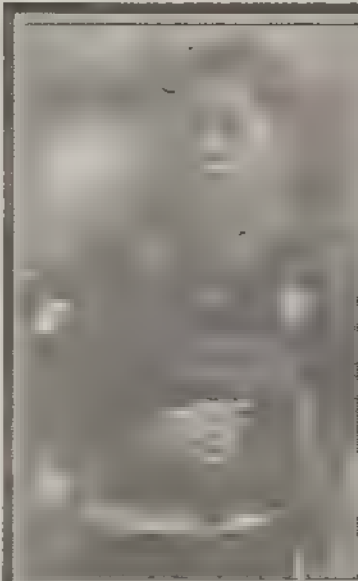

"There has been some animosity toward levies and other soccer fees in recent times" said Grandy.

"It is great to see the top level of soccer putting some funding back in the other direction. We have 19 junior soccer clubs and this year we will see our numbers go over 10,000 registered junior play-club recognises its role in the success of the event.

"In some respects, the junior clubs of Canberra are now co-promoters of an international fixture. We must all get out and support the game and say thank you to Visionmax for their support of Canberra soccer."

AUSSIE STAR McDONALD LOANED TO HUDDERSFIELD

Scott McDonald: Current Young Socceroo star has been loaned to Huddersfield for 3-months.

Mick Wadsworth has signed Southampton striker Scott McDonald - just two days after being appointed Huddersfield manager.

The 19-year old Australian moves to the McAlpine Stadium on a three-month loan deal, with a view to a permanent switch.

He has made just two substitute appearances for the Saints in the Premiership and his only start came in the Worthington Cup victory over Brighton last September.

Wadsworth said "McDonald is a player that I have been looking at for a while. I was working with him over the summer. He's got great pace, he's strong and he's a good finisher."

"His first-team chances were limited at Southampton and this is a very good chance for him in filling gaps at the moment."

"There is a hole up front, with both Delroy Facey and Leon Knight leaving, and I think that he can fill it."

FORCE OVERLOOK SOUTH AUSTRALIAN CUSTODIAN

South Australian squad member-Barney Smith just shrugged his shoulders and said: "That's football" when told of the news that new Adelaide City coach Charlie Villani had overlooked him for a position at the club.

After howls of protest from MetroStars officials and quizzical looks from soccer pundits around town, the question is now being asked as to how the former Cosmos keeper could not be considered.

News this week that Villani is signing a keeper from the Western Australian state league has led a number of local officials to believe that City are devaluing the local SA competition.

"I turned my back on a lucrative offer to join Newcastle United to play in Adelaide" said Smith. "Being ignored by Zoran Matic was one thing, but now I am considering leaving Adelaide for good," said the prolific shot-stopper who holds the record for successive penalty saves.

"I'll continue to honour my commitment to Mick Barnett and the boys in the state team. Some of them are also being overlooked for other players from interstate and players who are playing for free. If that's City's go, then good luck to them."

Smith has had an offer to head to the north of England for trials and it seems now that that will be his next option.

Barney Smith: South Australian state star has been overlooked by the Adelaide Force for the up and coming season.

OLYMPIC SHARKS TO SWOOP ON PROMISING YOUNG STAR?

By Mark Stavroulakis

Last year's Grand Final winners the Olympic Sharks are looking towards bolstering their squad with the possible inclusion of QAS graduate and current Joeys star Matthew Hilton.

At the age of 16, Hilton has a keen eye for goal and has shown that in the National Youth League Southern Division by being amongst the leading scorers of the competition.

The signing of Hilton will be a huge scoop for the Cronulla based side as the youngster promises to be one of the best talents ever to come out from the QAS.

Coach Gary Phillips (one time QAS Coach) is a firm believer in promoting youth as was shown in last seasons campaign when a number of young stars were unearthed by the 39-year-old Matthew Hilton: QAS star could be a part of the Sharks next season.

WORLD CUP SUMMARY

GROUP A

FRANCE

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd:

France 0 Senegal 1, France 0 Uruguay 0, France 0 Denmark 2

They arrived as defending champions and departed after the opening phase with their tails between their legs, winless and goalless - the worst record of any titleholder. An ageing squad had nothing left to offer after winning on home soil four years ago and then Euro 2000 and was torn apart mentally following injury to the talismanic Zinedine Zidane. He came back to face Denmark but a 1-0 opening day loss to Senegal and a goalless draw against Uruguay in which Thierry Henry was sent off meant the task had become impossible. The Danes won 2-0 and French pride was shattered.

DENMARK

- eliminated 2nd rd

2nd rd: Denmark 0 England 3

Jon Dahl Tomasson was the standard bearer for Denmark in the opening phase with his four goals making a mockery of his flop five years ago at Newcastle. The striker came to the finals as a UEFA Cup winner with Feyenoord which had already earned him a move to AC Milan. A double against Uruguay - a penalty against Senegal and then yet another goal against France showed brilliant predatory instinct.

Then nothing, as the Danes were hit by three-goal blast in the opening half by England in the second round. After a promising start they left almost without a whimper.

URUGUAY

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Uruguay 1 Denmark 2; Uruguay 0 France 0; Uruguay 3 Senegal 3

The Uruguayans provided a brilliant goal from Dario Rodriguez in their first match against the Danes but once they fell to a pair of Jon Dahl Tomasson goals the South Americans appeared to lose their self belief.

They couldn't beat ten-man France and although they produced a barnstorming highkick after going three goals down to Senegal - Diego Forlan hitting a beauty - that was not enough for the team which beat Australia in the playoffs to get here. Coach Victor "fat man" Pua stepped down after words.

SENEGAL

- eliminated quarter-finals

1st rd: Senegal 1 France 0; Senegal 1 Denmark 1; Senegal 3 Uruguay 3

2nd rd: Senegal 2 Sweden 1 (golden goal)

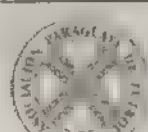

Quarter-final: Senegal 0 Turkey 1 (golden goal)

After Pape Bouba Diop shocked defending champions France in the opener the problem for Bruno Metsu's men was how to follow that.

The answer was to hold the Danes and then survive a Uruguayan lightning from 3-0 down as the eventual draw proved just enough. But against the Swedes in the second round there was even more drama as Henri Camara's golden goal including the extra-time golden goal winner. He dedicated both goals to his mother.

In the quarter-final Senegal's luck ran out, however. They lost out to Turkey whose superb striker Mustafa Nispet rished in a golden goal winner. But Metsu's side had come the flag admirably for Africa as they eliminated Cameroon's run to the last eight in 1990.

GROUP B

PARAGUAY

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Paraguay 2 South Africa 2; Paraguay 1 Spain 3; Paraguay 3 Slovenia 1
2nd rd: Paraguay 0 Germany 1

Paraguay were occasionally brilliant, sometimes dismal. They were 2-0 up against South Africa, as it slipped away. They looked to have cost them a place in the second round as they slumped to a far superior Spain, who were determined to run Paraguay's keeper Jose Luis Chilavert's legs about. Spanish failure back down their throats. But against Slovenia the Paraguayans staged an extraordinary comeback to win 3-1, despite spending much of the match with only ten men after an early dismissal for Luis Fernandez.

Paraguay, needing a two-goal win and for Spain to defeat South Africa in the other match, looked on for the last-minute miracle. However, a 1-0 half-time lead but veteran boss Cesar Milioni Paraguaray the manager, sending on Nelson Cuevas, who brought two goals, and another from fellow substitute Jorge Campos. The Paraguayans thus made the last 16 by virtue of goals scored after the South Africans lost 1-2 to Spain. But after having an agonising 90 minutes Oliver Bierhoff's late goal dumped them out and for Chilavert, Milioni and company the World Cup had ended.

SLOVENIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Slovenia 1 Spain 3; Slovenia 0 South Africa 1; Slovenia 1 Paraguay 3

The Slovenes made their World Cup debut - but it was one they preferred to forget by the time it was over prematurely.

They lost all their matches and an object campaign was made all the worse by a bust up between coach Srecko Kotec and star play Zlatko Zahovc, who was sent home after a row between the two.

Kotec had also taken the side to Euro 2000 as the newly-independent country of just 1.9 million people began to make its mark.

With Zahovc they were struggling from the start and without him they sank.

SOUTH AFRICA

- eliminated 1st rd

South Africa 2 Paraguay 2; South Africa 1 Slovenia 0; South Africa 2 Spain 3

The Bafana Bafana (the Boys) suffered elation and heartbreak within days of each other. They began by coming off second best over 45 minutes to Paraguay but rescued a point with Quinton Fortune's last gasp penalty. The midfielder chose a dramatic moment to net his first international goal with the injury-time spotkick.

Things turned on for the better with Syobongo Nomvete's early winner over Slovenia to South Africa's first win in the finals. But just when it seemed a first ever qualification for the second phase was in the bag Spain ruined it all with their 3-2 win in a match the South Africans needed only to draw and easily could have.

South African coach Jomo Sono was still proud of the team's efforts but sloppy defending in the final game and Paraguay's sheer miraculous comeback against Slovenia meant that they were out by the narrowest of margins - goals scored.

SPAIN

- eliminated quarter-finals

1st rd: Spain 3 Slovenia 1; Spain 3 Paraguay 1; Spain 3 South Africa 2

2nd rd: Spain 1 Ireland 1 (after extra-time)

Spain won 3-2 on penalties

Quarter-final: Spain 0 South Korea 0

Spain lost 3-5 on penalties

Yet again Spain failed to live up to expectations, but in many ways it was a first final. Real Madrid's star striker Fernando Morientes scored a sensational goal in the extra-time of the quarter-final against South Korea.

The game went to penalties and the Koreans were after striker Hong Myung-bo had some that winner with Spain's keeper missing the target. Fernando Morientes and Raul kept the goals coming in the first phase. But in the second round the Spaniards were fortunate to win a penalty shootout to dump out Ireland, keeper Iker Casillas pulling off two fine saves as Gazka Mendizola tucked away the winner.

The luck didn't last long.

BRAZIL

- CHAMPIONS for the fifth time

1st rd: Brazil 2 Turkey 0; Brazil 4 China 0; Brazil 5 Costa Rica 2
2nd rd: Brazil 2 Belgium 0 Quarter-final: Brazil 2 England 1
Semi-final: Brazil 1 Turkey 0 Final: Brazil 2 Germany 0

Having won the Cup a record four times previous favourites Brazil didn't look anything like their usual selves in qualifying as they lost a staggering six matches. But that didn't matter as coach Luiz Felipe Scolari got the best out of his players once in Asia and they made five title wins.

And with Ronaldo back to his sparkling best, albeit a little quicker, they beat Germany with the 25-year-old twice on target in a 2-0 victory.

But they slipped out by "losing" to see off Turkey, going a goal down before a late Ronaldo penalty and two goals from the opposition through a narrow win. China were pushed to their limits in the 1-4 victory over Costa Rica. Brazil's defence was superb, conceding only one goal in the 1-2 win over Belgium. Ronaldo's goal in the 1-0 win over Turkey was a tremendous masterstroke and pass for Ronaldo and then equally brilliant freekick sunk England in the quarter-finals. In the semi-final Ronaldo's brace was sufficient to see off the Turks a second time. In the final it was a case of twice as nice.

CHINA

- eliminated 1st rd

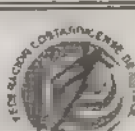

China's debut appearance turned out to be a huge flop as they failed to score a single point or goal.

Little Costa Rica despatched the red giants 2-0 and Brazil virtually walked in four before Turkey bagged another three to leave coach Bora Milutinovic and his men scratching their heads to find any good points.

Much-travelled Milutinovic was unable to conjure any magic and stepped down afterwards as agreed beforehand. He explained the severity of his rapport with the country's players was telling his translator to ignore any results from players.

China were the record fifth nation to appear in the World Cup Finals. But the country's debut was a run to the quarter-finals ended with Mexico in 1986. The next time was Costa Rica, then China, then Korea and Nigeria to the quarter-finals of the 1990, 1994 and 1998 editions.

It was small consolation that Asian football chief Peter Velupillai is to urge the Chinese to make a bid to stage the 2014 tournament. At least that gives them time to become competitive.

COSTA RICA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Costa Rica 2 China 0
Costa Rica 1 Turkey 1
Costa Rica 2 Brazil 5

The Costa Ricans put China in their place but it was all downhill from there - aside from some nice flowing moves against Brazil. But the failure to beat Turkey was to prove decisive for Paulo Wanchope and company.

Raymundo Parks saved a point with a late goal - but three were needed with the Brazil match to finish up.

Despite their defensive frailties Brazil were too hot in attack to give the Ticos a sniff of a chance even though they were briefly pegged back from 3-0 to 3-2. The door closed - and opened wide for the Turks.

TURKEY

- third place

1st rd: Turkey 1 Brazil 2; Turkey 1 Costa Rica 1; Turkey 3 China 0
2nd rd: Turkey 1 Japan 0

Quarter-finals: Turkey 1 Senegal 0 (golden goal)

Semi-finals: Turkey 0 Brazil 1

Third-place playoff: Turkey 3 South Korea 2

The shock team of the World Cup were Turkey, who were the only team to reach the quarter-finals. The opening game to Brazil was unexpected in the extreme as the huge Brazilian team a dramatic victory. Turkey's 1-0 win over China was a surprise, but the 1-1 draw with Costa Rica was a surprise. Turkey's 1-0 win over Senegal was a surprise. Turkey's 3-0 win over South Korea was a surprise.

Ronaldo's brace in the semi-final was a surprise. Turkey's 3-2 win over South Korea in the third-place playoff was a surprise. Turkey's 1-0 win over Senegal in the quarter-final was a surprise. Turkey's 1-0 win over China in the first round was a surprise. Turkey's 1-0 win over Costa Rica in the second round was a surprise. Turkey's 1-0 win over Brazil in the quarter-final was a surprise.

GROUP D

POLAND

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Poland 0 South Korea 2
Poland 0 Portugal 4
Poland 3 United States 1

Surprisingly poor performance from a team that had easily qualified for the finals.

Top-class goalkeeper Jerzy Dudek was beaten twice in the opener to South Korea and Portugal fired four goals past him in the second match as striker Emmanuel Olisadebe misfired.

PORTUGAL

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Portugal 2 United States 3; Portugal 4 Poland 0; Portugal 0 South Korea 1

A disastrous tournament for the 2000 European Championships semi-finalists.

World Footballer of the Year Luis Figo flopped miserably, apparently struggling with injury while Joao Pinto was sent off and embroiled in an alleged punching incident involving Argentinian referee Angel Sanchez in the heated South Korea match.

He faces a lengthy ban. A 4-0 win over Poland including a Pavluta hat-trick promised better things but the Koreans snuffed out any hope in Incheon.

SOUTH KOREA

- eliminated in semi-final

1st rd: South Korea 2 Poland 0; South Korea 1 United States 1; South Korea 1 Portugal 0

2nd rd: South Korea 2 Italy 1 (golden goal)

Quarter-finals: South Korea 0 Spain 0

(South Korea won 5-3 on penalties)

Semi-finals: South Korea 0 Germany 1

Third-place playoff: South Korea 2 Turkey 3

The tournament's debut was simply to progress from the first round, but they went on an astonishing run to the semi-finals, riding the wave of support from millions of red-shirted fans who thronged the streets. The Koreans, guided by Dutch coach Guus Hiddink, assured Korea's best ever finish at a World Cup. A team that had never even won a World Cup final match before the tournament put their right with a 2-0 win against Poland before beating Portugal to win the group. They were beaten in a golden-goal winner from Ahn Jung-hwan and Spain were overcome in a penalty shootout after a match abandoned by the Spaniards for biased refereeing. A Michos Ballack goal ended their hopes in the semi-final against Germany and they ran out of steam in the third-place playoff with Turkey but their achievements will have reverberations for Asian football for decades to come.

UNITED STATES

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: United States 3 Portugal 2; United States 1 South Korea 1; United States 1 Poland 3

2nd rd: United States 2 Mexico 0

Quarter-finals: United States 0 Germany 1

The Americans stated their intentions by going three goals up to the Portugal and held on for a famous 3-2 in a tense atmosphere they held South Korea to 1-1 thanks to a Brad Friedel penalty save from Lee Eui-yong. Bruce Arena's side slumped to Poland but goal difference took them through to the second round where Brian McBride and Landon Donovan hit the target in a famous win over regional rivals Mexico. The story even made the front pages of US newspapers. German defensive stability and a penalty for handball which was given knocked the Americans out in the quarter-finals when they could have pulled off a major upset. The States had their best tournament since 1932.

GROUP E

CAMEROON

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Cameroon 1 Ireland 1; Cameroon 1 Saudi Arabia 0; Cameroon 0 Germany 2

Cameroon came as Olympic and African champions. They left in the shadow of Senegal and having not done themselves justice. Failure to see off Ireland meant that the Germany match became crucial to their hopes of advancing and the indomitable Lions had a hugely-motivated coach in their own German Winfried Schäfer. But the team were strangely anured that day whereas the Germans, anxious not to have to rely on the Saudis holding Ireland, came up with the goods.

Cameroon beat the Saudis - but by less than their two main rivals with only Samuel Eto'o on the mark. And so began a long journey home - shorter than the circuitous route by which they arrived days late, but far sadder.

GERMANY

- Runners-up

1st rd: Germany 8 Saudi Arabia 0; Germany 1 Ireland 1; Germany 2 Cameroon 0
2nd rd: Germany 1 Paraguay 0
Quarter-finals: Germany 1 United States 0
Semi-finals: Germany 1 South Korea 0
Final: Germany 0 Brazil 2

Germany proved that even in the midst of an agony crisis they will always be there at the end.

The Germans registered the highest win at any World Cup for 20 years against the outclassed Saudis but then lost to Ireland after conceding a late equaliser against the Irish. But in Munich they had found their most potent weapon since Gerd Müller and his five goals, including a hat-trick against the Saudis, helped them through the opening phase. After that, he failed to add to his tally.

Against Paraguay it was Oliver Kahn who struck at the death after a workman-like performance. Michael Ballack saw off the United States in the quarter-finals though the US side deserved far better, and Ballack struck again to seal South Korea's exit in the semi-finals. Ballack's yellow card in that game saw him suspended for the final and he was sadly missed.

IRELAND

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Ireland 1 Cameroon 1; Ireland 1 Germany 1; Ireland 3 Saudi Arabia 0

2nd rd: Ireland 1 Spain 1 (aet; Spain won 3-2 on penalties)
The Irish arrived in Japan via Japan after being hit by a bomb-shell - the sending home of skipper Roy Keane, who criticised training facilities and what he saw as a lack of knocking down to the task ahead. The team proved him wrong as Mick McCarthy's side reached the second phase, holding both Cameroon and Germany, the latter thanks to Robbie Keane's late, late strike.

They then watched more than one goal in a World Cup match for the first time against the Saudis. But having given Spain more than they got in the next round the ensuing penalty shootout brought only heartache and another hard luck story of the kind that the likes of England know only too well.

SAUDI ARABIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Saudi Arabia 0 Germany 8
Saudi Arabia 0 Cameroon 1
Saudi Arabia 0 Ireland 3

Outclassed by Germany things just about got better - but only just. The Saudis were out of their depth aside from a number of promising but fruitless attacks against Cameroon. Even traditionally shabby Ireland put three past them.

Snubbed as they returned home the team can only look to the future. Prince Abdullah bin Abdel Aziz on Sunday has handed the task to Prince Abdul Majid bin Abdel Aziz.

Coach Nasser Al-Johar failed to live up to his name as 'Mr Fixit' and the finals will for the Saudis be best rapidly forgotten.

ENGLAND

- eliminated quarter-finals

1st rd: England 1 Sweden 1; England 1 Argentina 0; England 0 Nigeria 0
2nd rd: England 3 Denmark 0
Quarter-final: England 1 Brazil 2

England looked as if they might have blown their chances with two dropped points against the Swedes in the Group of Death. Instead, they saw off Argentina, who eventually crashed out. Then took the point they needed from Nigeria. Against the Danes three first-half goals, Michael Owen getting off the mark, made for a stroll.

But Brazil proved too strong for them in the quarter-finals despite Owen's opener. The two former champions had not met since Brazil's famous 1-0 win in the 1970 group phase. Owen took advantage of a 50th birthday to fire England ahead but Ronaldinho's brilliant run set up a fantastic finish from Rivaldo and Ronaldinho then swept in a mesmerising freekick over keeper David Seaman to win the match - even if the Brazilian would be sent off six minutes later. In the second half and with Ronaldinho having been dismissed England just couldn't find a way through.

ARGENTINA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Argentina 1 Nigeria 0; Argentina 0 England 1; Argentina 1 Sweden 1

Along with France the Argentines were the real flops of the event. They arrived having raced through the Latin American qualifiers and were seen as joint favourites with the French.

Gabriel Batistuta's header duly beat Nigeria - but David Beckham's penalty gave England a win in the most eagerly-awaited match of the first round. A draw with Sweden was scarcely mented - and by then the Swedes had done enough to join England in the last 16. Batistuta's generation have had their day.

Midfielder Juan Sebastian Veron believed bad luck was to blame as they had worked hard to prepare. But their game lacked fluency and it wasn't just like watching Brazil as the two neighbouring countries swapped roles, compared to what had gone in the qualifiers.

NIGERIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Nigeria 0 Argentina 1
Nigeria 1 Sweden 2
Nigeria 0 England 0

Arrived with potential - but didn't fulfil it. The Nigerians could have snatched a point off Argentina but thanks to Batistuta's forehead they didn't quite pull it off.

As morale sagged Sweden tipped the low-flying Super Eagles over the edge. A point against England in the heat did not nothing to lift the gloom.

SWEDEN

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Sweden 1 England 1
Sweden 2 Nigeria 1
Sweden 1 Argentina 1

Sweden had England on the ropes in their 'Group of Death' opener and might easily have claimed all three points.

Henrik Larsson scored a double against Nigeria and although a late Hernan Crespo goal saved Argentine bushes in a 1-1 draw Anders Svensson had scored earlier to get the point that the Scandinavians needed.

When it came to Senegal, however, Larsson - although he scored - and company were less effective as Henri Camara's double, the second a golden goal, sent the Swedes out.

GROUP G

CROATIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Croatia 0 Mexico 1
Croatia 2 Italy 1
Croatia 0 Ecuador 1

Croatia's amazing win over Italy proved to be a fluke as they stumped out, beaten by little Ecuador. It was a stark contrast with the Croats' third place in 1998.

The fact the Italians had two goals disallowed helped but Croatia were already dying with death by losing to a Mexican penalty in their opener.

The loss to Ecuador caused the roof to cave in. Coach Mirzo Jozic paid the price.

Unsurprisingly, the Croatian Football Federation gave him the boot.

ECUADOR

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Ecuador 0 Italy 2
Ecuador 1 Mexico 2
Ecuador 1 Croatia 0

As World Cup debutants Ecuador had already done well to get to the finals in place of the likes of Colombia. They were by no means outclassed by either Italy or Mexico and then came their big moment.

A win over the Croats, who had every reason to want a result.

Edison Mendez scored the goal which will go down in the annals of Ecuadorian footballing history.

ITALY

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Italy 2 Ecuador 0; Italy 1 Croatia 2; Italy 1 Mexico 1

Italy were as cautious as they are on paper talented - nothing new there. But the recipe had proved successful in the past in bringing three titles. First-round survival looked in doubt after the Croatian loss but Ecuador helped to push the Croats through the exit door.

And then came the Koreans and Ahn Jung-hwan's winning header in extra-time. For Italy it was the referee's fault - the man in the middle Ecuador's Byron Moreno.

Moreno incurred the wrath of the Italians when he sent-off Francesco Totti for diving and disallowed what would have been an extra-time winner by Damiano Tommasi.

As the Spartans would find out, lightning can strike twice - although maybe not in the same round.

MEXICO

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Mexico 1 Croatia 0
Mexico 2 Ecuador 1
Mexico 1 Italy 1
2nd rd: Mexico 0 United States 2

The Mexicans flattered to deceive as they dominated the opening phase.

They didn't need the win against Italy and the last few minutes neither side made any effort to force the pace.

But after raising expectations those hopes were dashed with a feeble showing against the fired-up Americans.

BELGIUM

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Belgium 2 Japan 2
Belgium 1 Tunisia 1
Belgium 3 Russia 2

The Belgians just held on for a draw with Japan and then reserved their best for Russia after another draw with Tunisia. Marc Wilmots scored the winner in an entertaining encounter with the Russians in a must-win match.

But his wrongly disallowed goal against Brazil meant it was journey's end.

JAPAN

- eliminated 2nd rd

1st rd: Japan 2 Belgium 2; Japan 1 Russia 0; Japan 2 Tunisia 0
2nd rd: Japan 0 Turkey 1

English-based midfielder Junichi Inamoto gave Japan their first ever World Cup win against Russia and under French coach Philippe Troussier they made big strides, although less so than the South Koreans.

But getting through the group was an achievement in itself and they could have beaten Belgium as well before a second success did arrive against Tunisia.

But Turkey were up for the fight in the second round and by then Japanese self-belief was on the wane.

RUSSIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Russia 2 Tunisia 0; Russia 0 Japan 1; Russia 2 Belgium 3

The Russians failed to get into the event and their first 45 minutes against Tunisia was fairly dire. The second half brought an improvement.

But then two defeats followed and the team were on the way home again after another tournament of underachievement. Two senior Russian oil executives later said they were ready to help the Russian Football Union hire a foreign coach to improve things.

It seems the money can't come quickly enough.

TUNISIA

- eliminated 1st rd

1st rd: Tunisia 0 Russia 2
Tunisia 1 Belgium 1
Tunisia 0 Japan 2

The Tunisians weren't outclassed - but didn't have any potent weapons in their armoury.

The draw with Belgium was a creditable result - Raouf Bouzeiane on target for the North Africans.

But against an ambitious Japan and a fired-up home crowd they slid to the loss which sent them out.

Keane rejects move

Republic of Ireland striker Robbie Keane has rejected a move from Leeds to Premiership rivals Sunderland after the clubs had apparently agreed on a transfer fee.

"I do not want to speak to any other club," Keane said. "I am happy at Leeds and am confident that I can impress any new manager with my ability and commitment."

The 21-year-old striker, who scored three goals at the World Cup finals, cost $US18 million ($A32.23 million) when he was signed by Leeds from Inter Milan.

Keane will now stay to fight for his place in the starting eleven at Elland Road alongside last season's recruit Robbie Fowler and Australian star Mark Viduka.

While Keane's stance puts him in a strong bargaining position, Leeds remains desperate to recoup STG15million in an attempt to stave off the need to sell England defender Rio Ferdinand, a target for Manchester United.

But Black Cats boss Peter Reid will hope he can talk Keane round as he

Christianity: the secret to Brazil's World Cup success

Brazil's secret to success has been revealed - divine intervention. Brazil's fifth World Cup triumph in Yokohama on Sunday after their 2-0 final win over Germany was followed by the whole Brazilian delegation saying a collective prayer on the pitch before going on to hoist the trophy.

Amid the joyous scenes several of Brazil's players took off their tops to reveal t-shirts with over and over colourful tributes to Christ and Jesus.

In another touching moment, two-time champion Cafu was thrust onto a pillar to raise the World Cup while his teammates scribbled a religious message on the front of his top.

French Football Chief reveals Shock

French football chief reveals shock French Football Federation (FFF) president Claude Simonet put forward Le Havre manager and former European champion Jean-Francois Domergue as his shock favourite to succeed Roger Lemerre as France manager.

Domergue, who won a medal with France when they won the European Championships in 1984, has expressed surprise at the news which Le Havre president Jean-Pierre Louvel says he would, with reservation, give his blessing.

Lemerre, who failed to take France past the first phase of the World Cup, still hasn't left his post but is widely expected to be edged out of the door by the time the FFF meet in Lyon. That will pave the way for a new man to be in place for France's friendly with Tunisia on August 21.

And while many, including French legend Michel Platini, favour Lyon's Jacques Santini, Simonet said he would like to see Domergue in charge.

"Personally, although he is tired up, I have a fancy for Jean-Francois Domergue, who to me fulfils all the conditions needed for the right man," Simonet revealed.

Spanish tax men swoop on Rivaldo

The Spanish tax authorities have handed Brazilian World Cup winner Rivaldo a 1.8-million-euro (1.77-million-dollar) bill for image rights, Spanish newspaper El Pais reported.

The Barcelona midfielder, under investigation since the start of 2001, has been told to handover the hefty sum of money he earned between 1997 and to El Pais a law was passed in 1997 which states: "A player can deduct a maximum of 15 per cent of his total image rights, the rest is considered like a salary."

Rivaldo, who jetted back to Brazil with the rest of his victorious countrymen, is disputing the tax bill and now has two weeks to present his case to the authorities.

SPAIN COACH CAMACHO RESIGNS

Spain coach Camacho resigns Spain coach Jose Antonio Camacho has resigned, the president of the country's football federation Angel Maria Villar said during a press conference.

The contract of former Real Madrid player Camacho, who had been at the helm of Spain for nearly four years, had been due to run till after the 2004 European championship finals in Portugal.

South Korea had knocked out Spain in the quarter-finals of last month's World Cup finals.

Cruyff slams World Cup and accuses Brazil of wrecking Football

Cruyff slams World Cup and accuses Brazil of wrecking football Dutch legend Johan Cruyff has criticised this year's World Cup by branding it as an "unmemorable" tournament and slamming winners Brazil for playing "anti-football."

In a stunning outburst on Dutch TV, Cruyff also insisted Brazil clinched a 2-0 win over Germany in Sunday's final because of a series of mistakes by Rudi Voeller's man.

"The 2002 World Cup is unmemorable, in August no-one will be talking about it. There haven't been any real stars," Cruyff said while working as an expert for Dutch TV during their World Cup final coverage. He said Brazil's style of play that took them to a record fifth World Cup is destroying the beautiful game.

"Brazil deserved their win but they aren't a team. They play anti-football and only took advantage of the mistakes of their opponents," added Cruyff.

"The first goal wasn't down to the brilliance of Ronaldo but as a consequence of the errors by the German defence and Kahn.

"Despite winning the name of the Brazilian coach won't go down in history because he was scared of the Germans."

Cruyff added: "They (Brazil) have set the standard for the rest of the World with their anti-football. I hope that the Netherlands don't follow this example."

SUPER LEAGUE FEATURE MATCH

Stanmore Hawks

STANMORE HAWKS 0
A.C. UNITED 0
at Arlington Oval

By Greg Stock

Make no mistake about it, this game was ugly, and to be fair it wasn't the fault of any of the players, nor the referee Simon Prydzacz.

The playing surface at Arlington Oval was terrible and with two sides known for their ball-playing prowess, this game was always going to be an anti-climax.

Fans of the English style 1950s football would have been right at home as both sides adopted the old route one tactic in a bid to eliminate the need for close ball control and make something happen. With the midfield largely irrelevant the game was robbed of much of its appeal with hard tackling and turnovers the key ingredients. While the game remained alive right to the death a result either way would certainly have been an injustice, as the game pace oscillated at little above slow.

For the record, AC United probably did have about seventy percent of the action but some strong-arm Stanmore defending nullified any threat with most of the opportunities being distance efforts. Agi Agyei almost gave his side a dream start in the 3rd minute when he chested a ball down in the penalty box and threw his right foot at the ball, only to see it trail away over the bar. Paul White had another good chance in the 30th minute as he slid in behind the Stanmore defence and created some space, his shot never even looked likely with goalkeeper Liam Curran surviving unscathed.

The only time that either goalkeeper was really tested was when Robert Todorovski was released by a Maurice Soler through-ball wide on the left in the 62nd minute. Todorovski was able to turn his marker but his shot sailed meekly over the head of goalkeeper Peter Akers and hit the crossbar before being cleaned up by Mark D'Alessandro.

But with Peter Papoythis rallying his players, Stanmore's defence looked unshakable. The veteran defender was close to best on-ground as he lifted his younger teammates to better efforts with a commanding performance in defence. Without Eric Hristodoulou and Tommy Pontidas in the lineup he played a fine line between pushing forward to attack and staying home to cover in defence. While some of his ballwork wasn't flash under the conditions, his physical presence rattled the AC forward line and he'll no doubt form the basis for new coach George Lazarou's push for the semi-finals.

With Stanmore embroiled in one of the most torrid weeks in their club's history, their collective performance deserves special mention. Ripped apart by politics in recent weeks with the departure of coach Chris Karasis and the appointment of George Lazarou, a number of their younger brigade stood up to be counted alongside captain Papoythis. Maurice Soler was lively while Neil Phillipou and the experienced Robert Todorovski worked hard without reward. George Skoulos did some good things while substitute John Theo looks to have shaken off the effects of a virus which had him in hospital last weekend.

For the visitors it was a fairly apt result and, given the nature of their position, coach Paul Carter was happy to take the point. Allan Picken deserves mention for his efforts as does Luke Vincent. And while they didn't get the win they were looking for, they have bigger fish to fry next week with the tempting visit of the high-flying Fraser Park back on their home patch at Abruzzi Field.

ROUND SEVENTEEN WRAP-UP

By Greg Stock

MACARTHUR RAMS .....6
(Eric Williams 2', 24', 75', Leigh Gunn 61', Kory Babington 78', Anthony Borg 87')
SYDNEY UNIVERSITY .....1
(Rob Smithies 69')
at Lynwood Park

Macarthur kept their slim chances for the post season alive with a comprehensive rout of the out of form Sydney University side on Saturday night.

With temperatures close to freezing point at kick-off it was the home side who started in red hot fashion racing to a 2-0 half time lead. But after the break, the visitors resolve was broken with Williams snaring another, Leigh Gunn, Kory Babington and Anthony Borg all getting on the scoresheet were down to their bare bones but they did more than enough throughout the ninety minutes to contain the hard running Dolphins.

Goalkeeper Peter Sestak saved a Hamilton Thorpe penalty in the 15th minute after defender Robbie Grubba had bought down the former Portsmouth striker in no uncertain terms. But Sestak dived to his right and at full stretch was able to do enough to deny the shot.

Damien Rosenthal did give Manly the lead in the 60th minute when he got in behind the Ryde defence to hit a right foot shot before Ryde City replied three minutes later with a trademark Andy Stratford header

Manly were best served by their midfielders Tim Wilson, Alex Wilkinson and Roland Webber while Andy Stratford, Robbie Grubba and Eddie Giraldo were amongst Ryde's best.

HAJDUK WANDERERS ...1
(Tim Gledhill 38')
DULWICH HILL .....1
(Ali Salim 44')
at Hajduk Stadium

Another indifferent performance from Hajduk robbed them of a golden chance for three points when they were held to a 1-1 draw by Dulwich Hill at Hajduk Stadium.

With Tim Gledhill back in the run-on side the Wanderers looked dangerous and it was the former Ryde City striker that got himself on the end of a cross with a diving header to give his side the lead in the 38th minute.

Ex-NSL player Adam Snyder now in the Fraser Park colours.

FRASER PARK .....1
(Jack Sobczyk 8')
ROCKDALE CITY SUNS ...1
(Spase Najdoski 44')
at Fraser Park

Jets coach John Sentas walked from the ground with a smile on his face for the first time in about six weeks as his side recorded an unlucky 1-1 draw with the league leaders Rockdale City.

With debutant Ante Moric in the starting eleven Fraser Park looked the better of the two sides right through the game, but again the old adage of 'poor finishing' cost them at least another two competition points.

The opening goal arrived in the 8th minute when defender Jack Sobczyk took full advantage of some pressure on Suns defender Malcolm Bideau from a corner and put away a loose ball, but the visitors replied one minute short of the break via Spase Najdoski.

Najdoski stepped up to a free kick on the edge of the penalty box and was able to thread the ball through a maze of bodies to find the empty net.

There was one scary moment for Fraser in the second half with Max Sevaes clearing a shot off the line in the 64th minute but that aside, the home side remained well in control but unable to translate that onto the scoreboard

Coach John Sentas was happy in the knowledge his team had 'no bad players' but again rued some missed opportunities

MSC LIVERPOOL .....2
(Scott Watkins 53', 78')
HURSTVILLE CITY CS ...0
at Hammondville Oval

MSC Liverpool picked up just their second win of the Super League season with an indifferent 2-0 win over Hurstville City in Saturday's other game.

Scott Watkins was the hero for the home side with two well taken goals and if he had maintained his composure he probably could have had another two as well.

Some internal problems at Hurstville City have obviously taken their toll as the side looked lethargic and disinterested throughout the ninety minutes, with some players looking like they were just going through the motions. But full credit to Liverpool. They took their chances and thoroughly deserved their win.

One of Ryde's solid back three Cormack Begley.

The league's leading scorer Rob Smithies did reply in the 69th minute but it was a case of failing to take their chances that cost the 'Students' dearly.

Paul Croci could have levelled the scores in the 24th minute, with the score at 1-0 to the Rams, when he found some space in the penalty box but he could not direct his shot anywhere but at the goalkeeper.

But from the very next play the Rams moved forward with Eric Williams netting a fine strike, such was the visitors evening. David Reid and Robert Angievski also starred for the winners.

MANLY WARRINGAH .....1
(Damien Rosenthal 60')
RYDE CITY .....1
(Andy Stratford 63')
at Cromer Park

A gutsy effort from Ryde City was enough to give them an even share of the points in their meeting with Manly at Cromer Park.

With Damien Brown, Andrew Nicol and Ben Burrows all on the injured list, and the coaching duties in the hands of Chris Cowley, the Gunners Hajduk's towering central defender Mark Reveley.

But disaster struck when goalkeeper Daniel Schwarzer fumbled a relatively routine take a minute short of the break and gifted Ali Salim an open goal. But just as it seemed the game would open up in the second stanza it went the other way and tightened right up with neither side able to gain a distinct advantage.

ROUND 18 PREVIEW

Rockdale City Suns v Macarthur Rams

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: Rockdale Ilinden SC, 210 West Botany St, Arncliffe.

The moment of truth arrives this week for Macarthur in the form of league leaders Rockdale City.

This game is the season deciding match for the Rams after a four game unbeaten run has bought them back into top five calculations.

The battle between both sets of forwards will definitely decide the outcome.

Goce Trposki, Nick Bosevski and Spase Najdoski were a little off their game against Fraser Park last week and in front of their home crowd they'll certainly have a point to prove.

Eric Williams, a former Suns striker, would like nothing better than to put one over his old team and with state representatives David Reid and Robert Angievski just champing at the bit, it is sure to be a lively encounter.

Macarthur midfielder Ben Green.

Hurstville City CS v Ryde City Gunners

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: St George Stadium, Bestic Road, Rockdale.

Some recent internal problems have all but scuttled the Crescent Star push for the top five, and with Ryde City in the midst of a purple patch they won't find this game easy.

Ryde City have three first choice players on the injured list and it will be interesting to see if the Gunners' coaching staff rushes any of them back into the starting eleven.

Andrew Nicol, Ben Burrows and Damien Brown might well find themselves on the bench after the team put in a handy performance last weekend to draw with second placed Manly-Warringah.

Captain Andy Stratford and state representative Greg Collins again hold the key to the Gunners chances. Coach Tony Dunn does tell us he WILL be back at the helm after handing over the reins to assistant Chns Cowley for last week's game at Cromer Park.

Andrew Nolan of Ryde City.

Sydney University v Hajduk Wanderers

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: Sydney University, Hs.1 Main Campus, Sydney University, Camperdown.

University coach Stewart Porter is no navel gazer and after watching the Hajduk Dulwich Hill game last Sunday, he is predicting his side will turn around their recent poor form and post a long overdue win.

"Hajduk's game against Dulwich Hill wasn't too flash, and I believe we can knock them off this weekend" said Porter.

"With Rob Smithies in tremendous form we have a lethal striker and if we can take our chances I believe we have the personnel to win."

Porter will shuffle his defence to cope with the loss of key defender Adam 'Sticks' Daley with a shoulder injury and has Luke McDougal slotted into the back four as his replacement.

Paul Croci will continue to partner Smithies up front and with Matt Crawford making a successful return from long term injury against Macarthur, and expecting to be fit to start against the Wanderers, Uni will be hoping to nail the points.

Hajduk's custodian Daniel Schwarzer.

Dulwich Hill v Manly Warringah

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: Arlington Oval, William Parade, Dulwich Hill.

Dulwich Hill will welcome back skipper Dejan Ristovski from a week's suspension, but will it be enough against the high flying Dolphins.

Manly haven't been at the top of their game in recent weeks but their efforts have been promising and coach Robbie Slater predicts his side will improve in the run home to the semi-finals.

"Our problem of late has been finishing" said Slater. "We seem to get the ball into the penalty box without problems but our forwards are wasting a lot and we'll need to improve that area of our game to win matches."

Slater will also be without key striker Ryan Griffiths for the remainder of the season after he elected to go overseas for a holiday ahead of signing for the Newcastle United side in the NSL.

Influential striker Hamilton Thorpe has been in good form of late.

Dulwich Hill's Xavier Schnyder.

MSC Liverpool v Stanmore Hawks

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: Hammondville Park, Hammond Road, Hammondville.

MSC Liverpool will have their work cut out again this week as they host the sixth placed Hawks, a club racked by internal problems until recently.

The departure of former coach Chris Karasis has sent shockwaves through the club with Greg Baldock departing Arlington Oval in support of Karasis and a number of senior players rumoured to be in dispute.

Coach George Lazarou was able to put a strong side on the park against AC United last weekend and he will again look to 'Captain Courageous' Peter Papoythis to galvanise a young side around him.

Robert Todorovski had a strong game last week and he will be one to keep an eye on while defender John Theo looks set to be rushed into the starting eleven after coming off the bench last weekend.

MSC Liverpool defender Peter Moon.

AC United v Fraser Park Jets

KICK-OFF: 3pm, 1pm & 11am, Sunday 14th July 2002
VENUE: Elizabeth St, Elizabeth St, Warrington Park.

First versus fifth bills this game as "Match of the Round" Jets coach John Sentas is eagerly awaiting his trip to Abruzzi Field, promising his side's loyal fans his side has turned the corner and is poised to make a move on the top sides.

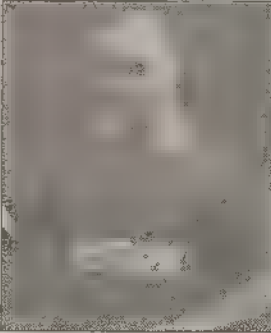

"Our performance last week against Rockdale was the best we have played all season, and as a team we did not have a bad player" said Sentas.

"I took the risk with a couple of underdone players and they really excelled, so with a weeks extra work under their belt there is no reason why we can't put on a big game against AC."

The combination of Ante Moric, Glenn Sprod and Fabio Macelino looms as the major stumbling block for the home side this week.

Add to the mix Mirko Junlj and Nigerian born Kindess Agwu and all of a sudden Fraser Park have a side capable of winning this week.

NSW Divisions 1 & 2

DIVISION ONE ROUND-UP RD 17

By Paul Goodwin

WHITE CITY hosted WANDERERS CEDARS and needed a win to get back on track after a collapse that left them with nothing to show from their game at Hurstville that they had looked like winning until twenty minutes from time.

With Wanderers having several stars back, it was always going to be a good contest and, while a tough one for White City, it was certainly not beyond them. They kept in the game until the deadlock was broken in the 57th but there was no holding Jim Meerbanus men after that.

The first half was full of missed passes and a few scares for the league leaders, but it was far too windy for either side to build much up.

The Wanderers-Cedars had a few chances but so did White City and the first half finished scoreless.

After the break, The Wanderers Cedars continued pushing for a goal and scored their first through Serge Dawd, who has been outstanding for the side in the last few weeks.

White City was no match for the leaders as the game was mostly conducted The Wanderers-Cedars' way, but the game was played in a very competitive, yet sporting spirit.

A second goal, scored about two minutes after the first, this time from Khaled Elkerhani, just helped The Wanderers-Cedars cement their position.

An enjoyable game for the visitors was finished off through a third goal by Elkerhani in the 83rd, while a late penalty gave White City a consolation goal, put away by the competitions leading marksman, Danny Poljak, after Peter Krlja had been upended in the box.

It was also good for The Wanderers to welcome back from injury Cristian Ortiz who went on in the second half.

WESTERN RAGE met ILLAWARRA LIONS for the second week in a row and there should have been few secrets between them after the earlier draw on the South Coast. With their solid home form behind them Rage would have started hot favourites.

This time, with home advantage, Western Rage proved too strong and romped to a 3-0 win thanks to second half goals from Paolo Talone in the 48th minute, Daniel Borg in the 72nd and Louis Berbis in the 86th.

It was a brave effort by the Lions who were the latest to fall victims to this scoring machine based at The Calabrian Sports Centre.

BATHURST was at home again and needed to beat MT

PRITCHARD to regain a spot in the four, a task that looked tough for them.

The Mounties had the bye the previous weekend, however and having gone to the lead in the 18th minute to a Joe Monic shot from a Luke Tomich cross, they may have been too fresh and went down in the end to an enthusiastic and capable Bathurst.

Kerry Johns, in the 54th minute, put the locals on level terms with Mount Pritchard and this came after a barrage of shots had been saved initially, leaving Johns to pick up the crumbs.

In the 75th a lapse in the visitors defence saw Garrett Dowling snatch the winner.

NORTHERN TIGERS and HILLS UNITED squared up at Parklands Oval.

In a game that had all the hallmarks of a typical local derby the Tigers got off to a dream start with a goal inside ten minutes and kept going for the full ninety minutes just as their rivals did, resulting in a fine contest and one with a good degree of skill on show from both sides.

A stray pass from James Shelley was seized on by Daniel Mittiga who then got the better of Andrew Nicol before chipping the keeper expertly and finding the roof of the Hills net.

The Tigers had to withstand a pretty torrid spell for much of the remaining minutes of the first half and some fine saves were executed by home keeper Ricky Oppedisano, once from an Alan Lindley free kick, the Hills skipper clipping another effort just over the bar.

Towards the end of the half the Tigers came back strongly and Matt Frost shaved the upright from 30 yards out, while Jason Mesiti put one just over the bar and Daniel Mittiga was denied by stout defending near the line, after good work from Nick Femia on the left byline.

In the dying minutes of the half Lindleys cross put Julian Miller in, but his shot also came back off the woodwork.

A very lively second half saw countless chances for both sides and it was not until Northern Tigers netted their second in the 60th minute that the game began to look safe for the hosts. There was still much to do as Hills kept up the pressure and went close on a number of occasions.

The Tigers got their second from a corner only moments after Daniel Mittiga's header to a cross from the right had been headed off the Hills line by Nicol. Tony Mittiga swung the flag kick over from the left and at the edge of the area B J Van Wyk headed the ball forward for Shane Coombes to head past the keeper from 6 yards.

There were some close calls for the Northern defence in the last half hour as Lindley and Miller pressed hard for Hills, but some good anticipation by Oppedisano and good work on the flanks by Tony Mittiga made life hard for the visitors.

Substitute Michael McCrory was a lively presence when sent on and almost won a contest for a through ball with the keeper who just got his touch in just in time, to concede a corner instead of a possible goal late in the piece.

The Tigers third came from Jason Mesiti who followed through on a ball from deep to saunter through the defence and go on and beat the keeper nicely.

It was a clear cut victory at the finish, but Hills United, a mostly young side, did not disgrace and played quality football, not always seen in derbies of this nature.

BELMORE HERCULES was back at Blick Oval to entertain MOUNT DRUITT TOWN RANGERS who have been very honest of late and it was a tight and scoreless first half between two sides hovering around the bottom of the ladder this season.

Garth Tehlewie opened the scoring for Town Rangers five minutes after the restart, but John Manolopoulos had his Belmore side level again inside a minute.

DIVISION TWO ROUND-UP RD 17

By Paul Goodwin

CAMDEN took on MINGARA LAKERS at Ron Dine Reserve, fresh from their second successive high scoring away win, the victory at Uni of NSW 5-3 coming a fortnight after they had done much the same to beat Auburn 4-3. Camden has a sniff now of finals football but they did it the hard way once more with a 4-3 victory recorded in similar fashion to their win at Auburn.

They had led 2-0, yet fell behind 3-2 before storming home late and collecting three more invaluable points.

This was a game that the Tigers could n't afford to drop points in against the lowly placed Lakers. They took an early lead when after 7 minutes sweeper Shannon McManus spotted the keeper off his line and used the gale force wind behind him to float the ball from 40 meters out over the keepers head and into the net.

After this the Laker's keeper was called upon to make some great saves to keep them in the match. This was until a minute before half time when Barry Graham beat a couple of defenders and placed a great ball to an unmarked Dean Mackechmie to slot home the Tigers second.

The Tigers were up 2-0 and were due to run against the wind in the second half, but Mingara took full advantage of the wind behind them and opened their score in the 60th minute, when Keenan Crum found himself in space and beat the Tigers keeper from inside the box.

Two minutes later a Tigers defensive error set up Mingara with their second chance of the game which Crum also slotted away.

Mingara, with their tails up and the wind behind them and on a roll, added another three minutes later to take the lead with a well worked move for Michael McGarvey to slot home.

This was the wake-up call the Tigers needed and they began to get their game back on track and in the 69th minute Mark Maloney made a good run down the left hand side and put over a good ball for Richard Dinnnan to hit a great shot which brought an even better save from the Lakers keeper, Daniels, but he was unable to hang on to it and Grant Mackechmie was on the spot to put home the equaliser.

Within a minute Mark Maloney received the ball out wide on the right hand side and, seeing the keeper was off his line again, this time decided to drift one over his head and the keeper couldn't get back in time and watched as it went into the net.

The Tigers managed to hold on for the remainder of the game and collected the maximum points from a determined Mingara outfit.

HAKOAH in one of three Sunday games met UNI OF NSW at the ES Marks Field, bent on securing more valuable points to keep the pressure on at the top.

The home side won 2-0 with both goals coming in the first half and many more denied by the woodwork in the second.

A defensive lapse allowed Adam Joseph to run at the Uni defence and supply a pass for Terry Sperber to go on and beat the advancing keeper from close range.

Then Joseph, again, had a hand in the second when he laid on a pass for Adam Mammoliti all smashing shots against the frame of the goal.

LIVERPOOL BOSS had a tricky game against SCHOFIELDS to contend with, as their march to the title continued in earnest. The expected loss of Sead Kacanovic to a pinched nerve in his back, did not eventuate and while it might have affected their chances, they are a young side and look to have reasonable depth.

As it turned out, Kacanovic not only played but had a hand in both goals in his sides 2-1 win against Stan Ackerley's men, scoring one himself after helping team mate Mladen Damjanovic to the first of his sides goals on the day.

The back injury proved less troublesome than thought and the young talent was able to play a full game.

In midweek action Schofields Scorpions had dealt a severe blow to Nepeans hopes with a 1-0 win at the CSI ground thanks to a headed goal in the 18th minute from Kamahl Gabara, after a long throw into the box from Mark Migis.

That midweek effort told on Schofields who were down before half time and even some smart second half play could not rescue them.

Damjanovic opened the scoring in the 25th minute, but Schofields were able to respond in the 65th through Kamahl Gabara.

Missing the suspended Shane Cevenini, the visitors had yet another goal from Kamahl Gabara to keep them in the hunt and although they hit the woodwork a couple of times as well, it was the home side, Liverpool who got the result they needed so badly to stay ahead of the pack.

Amir Smagovic threaded a ball, through from 30 yards out as stoppage time was due to begin and the skilful Kacanovic was able to go around the last defender and the keeper to seal the match 2-1.

GREYSTANES met NEPEAN ASSOCIATION at Bathurst Street Park and with the visitors losing in midweek and also not having either Paul Richardson or Matt Borg available to them, they were dealt another blow when Marc Hoenselaars only completed the first half before returning from the game.

The game ended scoreless which is of no help to Nepean and hardly gives Greystanes an accelerated passage into the semi finals either.

PARRAMATTA had the bye and ALBURN STAR also has the weekend off, due to the early withdrawal of Holy Cross Ryde.

NSW Youth & Cadet Leagues

PREMIER YOUTH LEAGUE RD 19

Well we certainly have a competition on our hands and that means that the final six rounds will be vital for the top five clubs. They have broken away from the pack and it is difficult to see the current teams dropping out.

However, the order can and probably will change several times over the coming weeks. Olympic Sharks lead the way but Blacktown City, who have won the last three Club Championships and are pushing hard for their fourth, are applying considerable pressure from two points behind.

Northern Spirit is far from out of it in third position and they too are keen to claim the top spot. It seems certain that Marconi Stallions and Parramatta Eagles will fight out the fourth and fifth spots as they are lagging a bit behind the top three.

Olympic Sharks v Marconi Stallions

When ABSW spoke to Marconi on Sunday they were still in party mode after taking seven points from the high flying Sharks at Bates Drive. The Stallions 13s maintained their fifth placing on the table with a scoreless draw against the Sharks who subsequently slipped to fourth position.

A single goal from Grant Gulabovski settled the issue in the 14s and gave the visitors three more points. Continuing the trend for the day the Stallions' table-topping 15s helped themselves to the points as a result of strikes from Jerson Leon and Christopher Lunella. Olympic scored their first goals for the day in the 17s when they saved the club from a whitewash with a 4-2 victory. Chris Camilleri scored a hat-trick and Chris Bouzaris got the other one for the home team while Joseph Duffell found the net and Edin Radaca converted a spot kick for the visitors.

Penrith Panthers v St George

Kingswood Park was once again a happy hunting ground for the Panthers as they took ten of the available points from the visiting Saints. Although every point is valuable at this level the good series of results hardly scratched the surface in helping the Panthers to climb the Combined table where they languish in eleventh position.

However, it has made things very difficult for the Saints as they struggle to avoid the wooden spoon. The home club got off to a great start with an emphatic 3-1 win over Saints' best placed team in the 13s to leave the Panthers in seventh place with a rough chance of earning a spot in the top five from the remaining games.

It will come as no surprise to astute observers of the game that the clubs drew 1-1 in the 14s. It was after all the eighth draw for each of them this season. Penrith resumed their winning ways in the 15s with a strong 2-0 victory and they finished the business for the day with a much closer than expected 1-0 win in the 17s.

SUPER YOUTH LEAGUE RD 19

Newcastle United continue to show the way on the Combined Table and they increased their lead to forty-three points last weekend when they earned seven points from their clash with their closest challengers, Bankstown City Cubs.

Macarthur Rams are thirteen points further back and can only realistically challenge for second place from this point onward. It looks as though Mingara Lakers, AC United and Fairfield Bulls will battle it out for the remaining two places in the top five.

Hills United v Bonnyrigg White Eagles

Hills have edged closer to the top five as a consequence of the nine points they gained from Bonnyrigg White Eagles at Oakville Reserve. However they still have a lot of work to do if they are to reach those lofty heights before the end of the season. On the other hand, the White Eagles continue to battle away at the bottom end of the table.

Bonnyrigg's fourth placed 13s provided the only joy for the club when they accounted for the home club 1-0. After that, they failed to score a goal in the remaining matches. Hills gave the visitors' 14s a bit of a fright as they came home strongly to win 1-0 against better placed opponents. The goal came from C. Andrews.

Third-placed Hills easily accounted for the bottom-rung Bonnyrigg in the 15s thanks to goals from G. Giovenali, Scott Faulkner and M. Foscolo. Hills' 17s continue to hold down second spot, seven points behind the leaders as a result of their strong 4-0 win. Ben Lam, L. Qummou, A. Tovell and B. Pollack all found the net for the home club.

Hajduk Wanderers v Canterbury Marrickville

Hajduk Wanderers earned ten of the points on offer when they clashed with Canterbury Marrickville at Hajduk Stadium and they are now close enough to compete for a place in the Combined Table top five.

In a lower half of the 13s table battle the Wanderers won by the odd goal in five and leapfrogged Blacktown into tenth place. Hajduk would be pleased to have taken the points in the 14s but the 2-1 score line was bit closer than they would have expected considering their relative positions on the table. The Wanderers remain in fifth place.

The 15s mid-table clash brought about a scoreless draw and then the Wanderers came to the fore once again as their 17s jumped over Bankstown and nailed down fifth place as a result of their 1-0 win.

DIVISION ONE YOUTH LEAGUE RD 19

Schofield Scorpions have edged past Camden Tigers to take the lead on the Combined Table but this battle is far from over. They are sure to fight it out for the rest of the season and it should prove to be fascinating.

Third placed Ryde City are twenty-four points off the pace and it looks certain that they will be locked in a fight of their own with Mt Pritchard, Parramatta City and Mt Druitt Town for the remaining three places in the top five.

Parramatta City v Dulwich Hill

Parramatta will be searching for answers about this encounter where they started so well and then crashed back to earth, losing nine points at Eric Primrose Reserve. The 13s table-leading Parramatta continued the good form that has seen them lose only once this season as they annihilated the visitors 7-0 and maintained their four point lead.

The home club did reasonably well in the 14s as they held their better performed opponents to a scoreless draw. Dulwich Hill then provided a surprise in the 15s with a 1-0 win against a City side that was looking to climb out of the bottom half of the table. The real shock of the day came in the 17s as Parramatta dropped back to fifth place following their 2-0 loss to mid-table Dulwich Hill.

GRASS ROOTS SOCCER

Communication is one the most vital factors in the running of a successful sport. Time and time again the head does not know what the tail is doing and vice versa.

Good communication practices need to be in place and although we are the largest Federation in Australia having over 130,000 players I am currently conducting workshop/seminars for Associations on Financial Management, Insurance, Child Protection, Privacy Legislation, Competitions and Marketing and Merchandising. It is also a chance to discuss issues on soccer.

From next week a monthly newsletter will be sent to all clubs and associations with up to date information on Amateur soccer. I also ask for your feedback or any questions you might have, address them to me, Michael Quarmby, General Manager at nswasf@nswasf.com.au.

SAMBA PARTY ERUPTS IN BRAZIL

A samba party to rival the best of Brazilian carnivals rocked the country as hundreds of thousands welcomed the country's soccer champions, winners of a record fifth World Cup.

Draped in yellow and green, now weary flag-waving fans packed into the streets of Brazil's biggest city here to greet their soccer heroes, who arrived from an enormous mountain-to-beach celebration in Rio de Janeiro.

Some of the players had already left for their home states, but that did not dampen the wild party as team captain Cafu held the Cup trophy above his head and paraded through the city's sambadrome to a frenetic samba drum beat.

Beletti, Cafu, Denilson, Juninho Paulista, Kaka, Marcos, Ricardinho and Roberto Carlos were greeted during the dawn parade as national heroes by a crowd of some six thousand hardcore fans, others having gone to bed after days of non-stop celebration.

Exhausted but elated, the players earlier had rejoiced in Rio with thousands of screaming supporters who had lined the streets of the sun-drenched city for hours to welcome them.

Feted as heroes, they kicked off their victory tour last Monday in Brasilia, where the plane bringing them home from Japan was escorted to the tarmac by four Brazilian Air Force jets.

Team captain Cafu was the first player to disembark from the plane, and hoisted the World Cup in the air for the waiting fans to relish.

Above him, written by skywriting planes, were the words "The Fifth."

Close behind him came World Cup hero Ronaldo, who said as he set foot on Brazilian soil: "I am happy and so are the Brazilian people."

Authorities said 500,000 people crowded along the 15 kilometre (nine mile) route to the presidential palace, where Cardoso decorated the team and coach Luiz Felipe Scolari with the National Order of Merit.

One of Brazil's leading newspapers the 'Correio Braziliense' has the cover of their World Cup stars parading on the front cover.

Papa Bouba Diop Robbed

Papa Bouba Diop, Senegal's star World Cup striker, was the victim of a robbery during a presentation ceremony at his hometown of Rufisque last Wednesday.

The man who stunned France by scoring a goal against the former world champions in their opening match had a bag stolen containing two portable phones, his passport, car keys and 460 euros (450 dollars) in cash.

The theft failed to put a dampener on the evening for the striker.

"It's extraordinary, I'm proud to be rufisqueois," he declared after being made the town's first citizen of honour.

The 24-year-old will be leaving Senegal soon for France to rejoin his club, Lyon, with whom he has a five-year contract.

Ronaldo Will Stay With Inter says Agent

Ronaldo will soon be back at Inter Milan to help them win the Italian championship, the Brazilian World Cup winner's agent stated to the media, dampening press speculation about a move to European champions Real Madrid.

"He's going to spend some time with his family now and he'll be returning to Italy on a high to win the championship with Inter," Alexandre Martins told the ANSA news agency.

Ronaldo's Brazilian teammate Roberto Carlos has asked Real president Florentino Perez to try and sign him, the Gazzetta dello sport newspaper had earlier reported "Real like to sign the best players in the world and Ronaldo is certainly one of those," Real leftback Roberto Carlos told the paper.

Ronaldo, quoted in the Spanish paper AS, remarked: "Robert Carlos is always talking about Real."

"For me I belong to Inter. If they want me all they have

Ronaldo: Golden Boot winner will be back at Inter this season to do is get in contact with the club and we can all talk about it together."

But his transfer to Real seems highly improbable judged by comments made by Inter president Massimo Moratti.

"It's 101 percent that he'll be staying here because he has to win the 'scudetto' (title) for us," said Moratti about the 78 million dollar rated striker who scored both goals in Brazil's win over Germany in the World Cup final last Sunday.

Middlesbrough sign Maccarone, Juninho return on the cards

ing Italian striker Massimo Maccarone and agreed a fee with Atletico Madrid for Brazilian World Cup winner Juninho.

The north eastern side disclosed the news of the proposed double deal on their official internet site as their rebuilding plans for next season got well under way.

The 22-year-old Italian international Maccarone, who has been pursued by Middlesbrough boss Steve McClaren for three months, joined for a club record fee of 8.15 million pounds (13 million dollars) from Serie

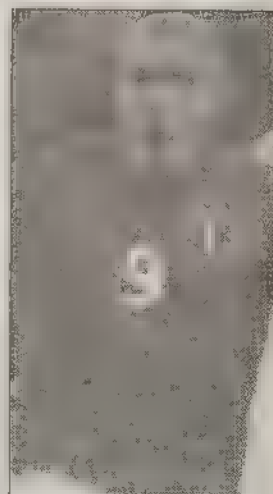

B side Empoli.

They also hope to tie up the return of midfield genius Juninho, who starred for the club for two years in the 1990s, in the next few days.

"Negotiations with Empoli were longer than expected, but Maccarone is now a Middlesbrough player," McClaren told the club website.

"I think it is a great signing for the club, one which will excite the fans, not just for now, but for the future."

McClaren is also confident he can convince fans favourite Juninho his future lies in England.

Blanc strikes new deal with Manchester United

Former France star Laurent Blanc has made a u-turn on his vow to quit football this summer by signing a new one-year deal with English giants Manchester United, the club's official Internet site stated.

Blanc, who won the World Cup and European championship with France before quitting international football, said it would be his last season when he joined United from Italian side Inter Milan.

Although United have been linked with a host of big-name centre-halves over the summer - including Leeds United star Rio Ferdinand and Lazio's Alessandro Nesta - Blanc has decided to stay put for one more year.

"I'm very happy. I can't wait for the new season to start," 36 year-old Blanc said on Manchester United's website.

United manager Alex Ferguson, who also last season turned his back on quitting to sign a new deal, added: "I'm delighted."

KING KAHN NOW GOLDEN

German captain Oliver Kahn has been awarded FIFA's Golden Ball, for the most outstanding player at the World Cup.

The governing body announced on Tuesday that the 33-year-old keeper, the first custodian in the history of the award given to the man judged to be the player of the tournament, was the latest recipient despite the error that gave Ronaldo his first goal in the final.

Kahn garnered 25 per cent of the votes of the world's media present at the World Cup final won 2-0 by Brazil on Sunday, primarily for conceding just one goal in six previous matches and making some stunning and superb saves.

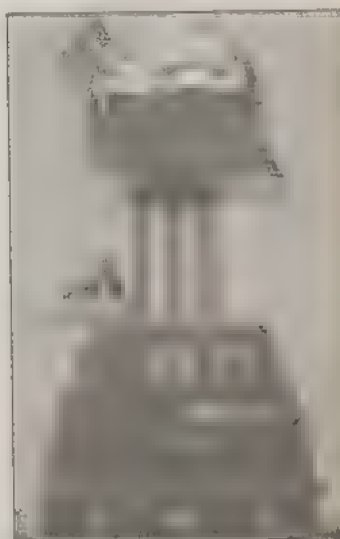

It is the second time that the award was given to a World Cup runner up, following Ronaldo crowing after his team's three-nil loss to France in 1998.

Oliver Kahn has been named the Golden Ball winner of the 2002 World Cup tournament.

Ronaldo — who swooped on Kahn's failure to hold a shot from Rivaldo to score the first goal, and subsequently the second as well — was second with 21 per cent of the vote and Korea Republic's Hong Myung-bo third with 18 per cent.

The five previous winners of the Golden Ball were Paolo Rossi (1982), Diego Maradona (1986), Toto Schillaci (1990), Romario (1994) and Ronaldo (1998), who narrowly failed to become the first player to win the award twice.

Belgium wins FIFA Fair Play Award

FIFA announced that Belgium had won the FIFA Fair Play Award at the 2002 FIFA World Cup Korea/Japan.

Sweden finished second in the FIFA Fair Play standings and the Japanese team took the third-place spot.

As the winners of the FIFA Fair Play competition, Belgium will receive a trophy, medals, diploma and a voucher valued at USD 50,000, which shall be exchanged for a supply of Adidas equipment to be used exclusively for youth team development in Belgium.

The FIFA Fair Play Award is given to the team with the best record of fair play according to a points system and criteria established by the FIFA Fair Play Committee. Since the award's inception in 1978, only Brazil have won the award three times, earning the FIFA Fair Play Award in 1982, 1986 and 1994.

Argentina is the only host country to have claimed the award (1978) and England took home the prize twice: once in 1990 and then in 1998. England shared the honour with France.

FIFA Fair Play Award Winners

1978 - Argentina
1982 - Brazil
1986 - Brazil
1990 - England
1994 - Brazil
1998 - England / France
2002 - Belgium

Only teams that played at least four matches of the 2002 FIFA World Cup Korea/Japan final competition were eligible to win the FIFA Fair Play contest.

The overall assessment of the teams during the final competition was calculated by adding the points attained at each match and dividing this figure by the number of matches played.

Ljungberg to miss start of season

Midfield player Fredrik Ljungberg underwent surgery last weekend which could see him miss the start of Arsenal's UEFA Champions League campaign.

The Swedish international, who was arguably the FA Premiership's most impressive player in the final three months of the season, will have an exploratory operation to mend a small tear to the cartilage around his hip joint.

The recuperation time is expected to be two months, which could put his participation in Arsenal's opening Champions League game on 17/18 September in doubt. The English champions were eliminated at the second group stage last season and will be determined to improve on that in 2002/03.

Ljungberg's injury meant he missed Sweden's last two games at the World Cup, against Senegal, who knocked them out in the second round, and Argentina, with whom they drew 1-1 in the final group game.

Freddie Ljungberg is to undergo knee surgery and may miss the start of Arsenal's campaign.

Birmingham chase Olisadebe

Premiership newcomers Birmingham have bid £3.8m for Panathinaikos striker Emmanuel Olisadebe, according to reports in Poland.

The 23-year-old has attracted interest from some of Europe's top clubs following impressive performances in last season's Champions League.

Panathinaikos took up an option to permanently sign Nigerian-born Olisadebe from Polonia Warsaw for £800,000 in May this year.

He had previously been on loan from the Polish side.

Olisadebe had a disappointing World Cup, scoring only once as Poland went out of the competition at the group stage.

But Birmingham boss Steve Bruce sees him as the man to spearhead his side's first campaign in the Premiership.

Newly promoted side Birmingham City in the Premier League is touting Emmanuel Olisadebe.

Kashima chief Zico in line for Japan job

Brazil legend Zico has emerged as the favourite to become the next Japan coach following Philippe Troussier's resignation.

"The terms of his contract have to be approved at the executive board meeting on July 20," said JFA president Shunichiro Okano.

The former midfield genius has been in Japan since the advent of the J-League in 1993, working with four-time champions Kashima Antlers.

Zico, though, is not the only foreign coach on the list. France's Aimé Jacquet has been linked with the post, as has Bora Milutinovic, who coached China at the World Cup.

Troussier quit following Japan's second-round loss to Turkey, ending a four-year tenure which also saw the nation crowned Asian Cup winners in Lebanon in 2000.

Brazilian legend Zico has emerged as a strong favourite to take the helm of the Japanese national team.

Senegal duo warned to keep feet on ground

Lens coach Joel Muller has told Senegal World Cup stars Ferdinand Coly and Papa Bouba Diop to "come down from the moon" after they were linked with moves to England.

Arsenal are reportedly tracking 29-year-old defender Coly, while Manchester United are interested in Bouba Diop, according to Lens.

But Muller claims the duo still have a lot to prove in France before they should start thinking about the Premiership.

"What they did at the World Cup was great but that does not even guarantee a place in the Lens side," he warned.

Muller wants the pair to show their worth over the next French season and has urged them to pledge their immediate future to Lens.

Ferdinand Coly and Papa Bouba Diop: Their World Cup exploits may not guarantee first team action at Lens.

He said: "Ferdinand Coly is under contract for another season and I'm hoping he'll tell me he wants to stay here. The same thing goes for Bouba Diop, though I have just heard him say he wants to go to England next season."

As a non-EU player, Bouba Diop, who failed to break into the Lens first team after arriving in France late last season, does not have sufficient international experience to move to the Premiership yet.

Both starred as Senegal reached the quarter-finals of the World Cup, beating France and drawing with Uruguay and Denmark in the group stages, before eliminating Sweden in the second round.

AEK CLOSE IN ON URUGUAYAN DEFENDER

AEK are close to sealing the loan signing of Uruguayan defender Sebastian Morquio from Argentinian side Huracan. He was expected to arrive in Athens on Wednesday.

"This offer is very important for me as my dream has always been to play in Europe," he said.

"I don't want to appear overconfident and I hope that the transfer can go through."

He could be set to see action in the Champions' League next season should AEK complete the signing and then progress through their qualifying match.

The Greek side have offered £550,000 for the experienced defender but Huracan are reportedly more interested in a loan deal with an option to sell their current captain for a higher fee should he impress.

With 21 goals in 111 matches, Morquio will be hoping to fill the gap left by the exit of World Cup star and fellow South American Carlos Gamara, who is expected to sign for Internazionale.

Carlos Gamara will leave AEK for Inter to be replaced by Sebastian Morquio in Athens.

TRAPATTONI TO STAY ON AS ITALIAN COACH

Italy manager Giovanni Trapattoni vowed he wouldn't follow a host of big names who have quit their jobs as national team coach since the World Cup.

Spain's Jose Antonio Camacho became the latest name to give up his job when he resigned last Wednesday and France's Roger Lemerre is expected to be sacked in the following weeks.

However, after being given the green light by the Italian Football Federation (FIGC) to stay on, experienced Giovanni Trapattoni will still resume as Italian National Coach.

Trapattoni vowed he is already preparing for the country's friendly against Slovenia in August 21.

"I've probably made several mistakes but I am ready to stay on because there is nothing in my mind that says I should go," Trapattoni said during a press conference on Thursday.

I met with the president Franco Carraro and he confirmed his confidence in me.

"On the 21st of August there will be a friendly (against Slovenia) and we will continue to work as we have been doing."
